CANNON IN LAST DITCH

2 BANK INDICTMENTS

SPEAKER SEEMS BEATEN; TALK OF DEPOSITION

Insurgents, Led by Gardner of Massachusetts, Hold Control of House, and "Czar" Is Compelled to Ask for Quarter.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Speaker Cannon was charged with anarchy to-day in the most exciting point of the twenty-four-hours' battle waged against him by the Democrats and insurgents—the greatest struggle Washington has seen in a decade.

Representative Shackleford of Missouri, in a heated attack, declared that the Speaker "precipitated an anarchy by his refusal to permit the House to perform its functions."

CHORUS OF SONG WHILE DISORDER PREVAILS.

"The Speaker has issued a warrant directing the Sergeant at Arms to arrest and bring before the bar the members of the House absent without leave," cried Representative Shackleford, that the Speaker in secret ordered that official not to execute the warrant".

While Mr. Shackleford spoke "Uncle Joe" betrayed no emotion.

Shackleford's speech stopped one of the most unusual scenes of many congresses. While the Speaker protem. vainly pounded for order, members of the House sang "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town To-night."

Mr. Ellerbee of South Carolina started "My old Kentucky Home," and only desisted when Shackleford began his attack.

The allied forces of the Insurgents and Democrats this afternoon claimed that they would have a majority of seven votes in favor of overturning the rules whenever the question was put to the House by the Speaker. The regulars expressed equal confidence, but fought desperately for delay, nevertheless.

A report is in circulation that the insurgent Republicans meeting in the room of Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, gravely considered whether it lay in their power to summarily depose Speaker Cannon or discharge the sergeants-at-

WHITNEY OPENS STATE HOUSE FIGHT FOR WATERFRONT

The J. Pierpont Morgan-Henry M. Whitney fight for the control of Boston's waterfront was formally opened on eBacon Hill to-day when Mr. Whitney went before the Legislative Committee on Railroads and argued for his bill to have the tSate turn over to a railroad or terminal company the Commonwealth flats at East Boston for the construction of a series of docks which are intended to make Boston's harbor facilities among the best in the world.

STANDS READY TO PAY FOR PRIVILEGE.

Mayor Fitzgerald and President Bernard J. Rotawell of the Boston Chamber of Commerce also favored the bill. The best thing in the way of opposition was provided by J. Bourdman Cann, a consulting engineer, who said he has been all over the world and has studied the harbor of every city of importance.

Mr. Cann told the committee that he represents a body of capitalists who are ready to pay the Commonwealth for the right to develop the East Boston water front. His backers, he said, are willing to build docks, operate them for a number of years and then turn them over to the State or to the city of Boston. He declined to say who his backers are. He protested, as a citizen, against handing over valuable water front franchises to private enterprises without any compensation and allowing the promoters to convert their franchise into cash if they wish to do so.

Mr. Cann is listed in the Directory as a consulting engineer, with an office at No 45 Franklin street, room 312.

John J. Walsh, a Boston lawyer, also attacked the Whitney bill.

The Whitney bill provides for the establishment of a new harbor line across Bird Island flats at East Boston and the making of agreements with any of the railroads, jointly or severally, having terminal in the city of Boston, for the construction from time to time, as agreed upon by such railroads, or by a terminal company, whose obligations shall be guaranteed by such railroads of piers, at East Boston along a pier-head line, which shall be substantially an extension of the established harbor line.

This line shall be parallel with Marginal street, from an angle in the harbor line opposite the terminal of the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad for a distance of six hundred feet; thence running easterly across Bird Island flats and along the extreme low water line of Noddle Island flats, the line extending 3,500 feet from the angle referred to.

Seek Exemption of Taxes.

It is Mr. Whitney's idea that the railroads should build a pier at a time, that the Commonwealth should release them the land and relieve them from taxation for a term of years, and do anything else that will encourage them in their work.

Mr. Whitney said: "I would not object to the Commonwealth building the piers and leasing them to the railroads. The loss now so taxable value and that the Commonwealth could well afford to relieve any railroad taking up with this proposition from taxation.

"The purpose of this bill is to present in concrete form a simple but comprehensive plan for the development of the commercial facilities of the port of Boston.

BOMB BLOWS UP A CAR IN STRIKE CITY

PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—A trolley car was wrecked and its occupants had a narrow escape from death to-day when a dynamite bomb operated by a slow time explosive detonated the car at Roberts avenue and Lehigh avenue. The police believe that the wrecking of the car was a strikers' plot and twenty men in plain clothes are working on the case.

The police have ascertained that the dynamite bomb was placed in the track beneath the centre of the car. A gaping hole was torn out of the middle of the floor and the roof of the car was blown off. Every window was smashed and more than 1,000 pieces of glass in the neighborhood were shattered by the concussion.

The police have learned that three men were seen sticking around the car for the last half of the thirty-fourth and Huntington streets shortly before it started on its trip. It is believed they are the men who placed the bomb under the car. They had gone but a block from the barn when the explosion occurred. The motorman and conductor were cut by fragments of glass, but were otherwise uninjured.

Fortunately there was but one passenger in the car, a woman, and although she was terrified by the explosion and is prostrated as a result of the shock she was not injured. That she was not killed outright is due to the fact that she was sent sprawling to the floor of the car.

Peace plans for the car strike and the general strike to-day appear to have gone to smash. Overtures are unanimously disregarded and irresistible force. Every indication to-day points to a declaration of a state-wide general strike on Monday and an enforcement of plans for a labor party through which war will be waged at the polls against the Republican body organization, to which machine the labor leaders charge the magnitude of this industrial war.

The Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company to-day refuses to reinstate 175 of the former employes. The strikers refuse to listen to any proposals that do not include these men, for if it was their discharge that originally brought on the crisis. Theoretically but two days in which a settlement may be arranged in time to prevent the State-wide strike. Those who have been working for conciliation, however, have not lost hope and to-day they redoubled their efforts.

FIRE TRUCK IN TWO COLLISIONS; TWO MEN HURT

Hook and ladder truck No. 2 of Cambridge figured in two collisions to-day on one going to and the other coming from a fire. In the first one a Greek peddler's apple cart was knocked upside down. The second collision was much more serious. The truck was hit by a trolley car. Two firemen were hurt and both trolley and truck were damaged. The driver was knocked ahead of the tracks, and passengers were badly shaken up.

The truck was responding to a fire on Prospect street. At School street an apple peddler, frightened by the truck gong, turned down from the sidewalk attempted to pull his horse out of the way and made a sharp turn that sent his wagon into the speeding truck. The air was thick with apples and wagon and the truck sped on.

The fire was put out after it had done $200 damage to a three-story tenement house on Prospect street. When the truck was returning through Windsor street it was struck sideways by an 11-ton Spring Hill trolley at the corner of Hampshire street.

Ladderman Jos. McCluskey was thrown to the pavement. His right ear was torn nearly from his head. Ladderman Tom Lane also suffered. Both were treated at a doctor's office nearby.

The rear axle of the truck was sprung. The left wheels were torn off and the truck wheels and one side of the truck was badly damaged.

The vestibule of the trolley was smashed in, but, so far as known, neither motorman nor passengers were hurt. A wrecking car was sent to the scene of the crash. The truck went to the repair shop.

PACKER TAKES OATH THERE'S NO TRUST

WASHINGTON, March 18.—So help me God, there is no trust or combination of packers controlling the prices of meat." This was the dramatic testimony given to-day by Edward Morrison of the Western Packing & Provision Co. of Chicago, before the Senate committee investigating the cost of living. In reply to a question from Senator Gallinger, Mr. Agger founded the Beef Trust as "a figment of the imagination" caused by the agitation of the rise in prices principally to reduced supply, especially in regard to hogs.

OPEN PORT HOSPITALS TO ALL

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Senator McCumber of North Dakota introduced in the Senate to-day a bill providing for the admission of any citizen to the Government hospitals maintained by the Government, including those of Fort Bayard and Fort Trenton N. M. Persons not in the army or navy must pay the expenses of the hospitals. Later the Senate resumed consideration of the railroad bill and Senator Bourne of Iowa continued his argument against it.

STUDENTS TO FIGHT RUSSIAN LAWMAKER

ST. PETERSBURG, March 18.—As an outcome of a scene in the Duma when Vladmir Purishkevich, vice-president of the Union of True Russians, made coarse accusations against one of the leading members of the students' council of St. Petersburg University, which caused a storm of indignation, the students' council has decided to challenge Purishkevich to a duel and draw lots who shall fight him.

ELECTRIC TORCHES TO CATCH SPEEDERS

BELLEVILLE, N. J., March 18.—Policemen of the town are to have electric torches to take numbers on autos going too fast. The chief of police explained to the Township Committee that it was impossible to get the numbers without lights.

LE BLANC GIRL AGAIN GLOVER CASE WITNESS

Irene Le Blanc was the witness to open the Glover will contest before Judge Melntire this afternoon in East Cambridge. The girl had recently testified that Mrs. Glover told her that she hated her husband and that the wife wrote notes threatening the life of her husband. At this extended the little French girl, she testified, a few days before Glover was murdered.

Lillian Le Blanc is to be called to-morrow. Irene's story, and then it is planned to put Hattie Le Blanc, who is under arrest for Glover's murder on the stand.

The usual big crowd, with women predominating, is in attendance after the trial opened to-day. The examination of Irene Le Blanc was continued by Lawyer John J. Scott.

ALCOHOL EXPLOSION BURNS A WORKMAN

Fred Ross of Cambridge, while at work at the factory of the Derby Desk company, Vernon street, Somerville, was terribly burned about the hands, face and body to-day by the explosion of several cans of wood alcohol. Ross was trimming a lighted gasoline lamp, when part of the lighted wick, it is thought, dropped among the cans of wood alcohol. Nearly every stitch of clothing was burned from his body. He is married and has two children. At the Somerville Hospital it was said his condition was dangerous.

YOUNG WOMAN, DROWNS SELF; FORGIVES MAN

The unidentified body of a girl, about eighteen years of age, was found on Strandway Beach, near Columbia road, South Boston, early to-day.

It was evident that she had drowned herself during the night. This note was found in one of the girl's pockets:

"I am tired of life. Tell Frank I forgive him. Please publish an account of my death in the newspapers. My mother will know who I was."

The girl wore a plain gold ring on the inside of which were the initials "C. C." This is the only clue the police have as to her identity.

She was of medium height and neatly dressed in plain white setter waist, black skirt and black shoes and stockings. She wore no hat.

This portion of the beach is very lonely and deserted at night.

MAYOR DIES AS HE DRIVES AUTO

ST. JOHN, Kan., March 18.—O. R. Shepherd, Mayor of St. John, died of heart failure at the steering wheel of his automobile while he was driving along eight miles west of the town. In the party with him were his wife, his wife's sister and a child.

BALLINGER-PINCHOT HEARING GOES OVER

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Because of the situation in the House to-day the hearing in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy, which was to have been resumed to-day by the joint congressional committee, was postponed until to-morrow morning.

GIRL FATALLY BURNED.

NEWARK, N. J., March 18.—Ten-year-old Josephine Lefkowitz is dying to-day as the result of burns sustained when lighting paper, falling from a stove, set her afire. Her mother collapsed after rising from a sick bed to vainly [illegible] the blaze.

COLEMAN AND AIDE UNDER INDICTMENT

The Federal Grand Jury this afternoon reported to Judge Lowell in the United States District Court two indictments each against George W. Coleman, former bookkeeper of the National City Bank of Cambridge, and Wilson W. Lockhart who acted as Coleman's assistant and messenger.

Two secret indictments were also returned by the Grand Jury. United States Marshals were sent out to look for the indicted men, whose names were not made public.

Two indictments were returned against each man. Both Coleman and Lockhart are charged in the first indictment with making false entries in the books of the National Banking Association to which the National City Bank belonged. Coleman in a second indictment is charged with misappropriation of the funds of the bank. Lockhart in a second indictment is charged with aiding and abetting in this misappropriation.

There are more than fifty counts in the two indictments against Coleman and about a dozen counts against Lockhart.

"There was no evidence of any kind introduced before the Grand Jury in connection with these cases against the so-called Taft gang," said United States District Attorney Asa P. French in discussing the indictment of the two men. "Both men will probably be arraigned next week on these indictments."

Both men were arrested some time ago and released under bail pending action by the Grand Jury, which reported to-day. Coleman's present bail is $50,000 and Lockhart's $15,000.

Both men will now be brought into court, asked to plead to the indictments and then new bail set. If they are unable to furnish it they will be sent to jail.

The older evidence against Coleman is contained in the Grand Jury was Coleman's confession made to United States District Attorney French and read in a strong whisper to the Grand Jury. Coleman told his story to Mr. French and to three bankers who had completely gone over his entire ledger. It was thought that in his confession Coleman exonerated Lockart from all blame, and to-day's indictment of the young companion of Coleman came as a surprise.

BALL PLAYER STORKE DEAD

"Al" Storke, infielder of the Cincinnati Reds, died early to-day at the home of Charles A. Vinal in Newton Centre, after an operation on his chest. He had been suffering from a complication of diseases, as well as from a severe attack of grippe.

Storke was a third-year man at the Harvard Law School. He was a member of the Pittsburg team last year, being a utility infielder. He was traded to St. Louis near the end of the season and was the last Whyte traded by that Club to Cincinnati. Before playing professional ball he was a prominent player on the Amherst varsity nine.

SHOT WOMAN, HELD IN $3,000

Joseph Silva, who is charged with assault and intent to kill Mrs. Gertrude Shields at No. 3 Taylor street, South End, last night, was arraigned before Judge Burke in the Municipal Court to-day and held for a hearing until March 25 in $3,000 bonds. Mrs. Shields was in court, although suffering acutely from a bullet wound in her neck.

FINED ON MILK CHARGE.

John F. McGee of No. 78 Carolina avenue and Hosteno Holden, a milk wagon driver, were fined $100 each in the West Roxbury District Court for having watered milk and milk below the standard in their possession. McGee appealed.

'HOLDING' BOND PLAN ASSAILED BY DR. BERLE

former Representative Daniel J. Kiley, for the depositor; and Francis A. Snow, for the savings banks, all took the stand to-day at the recommendation of Governor Draper that the B. & M. merger bonds be made a legal investment for Massachusetts savings banks.

Up to the time of adjournment until next Tuesday at 10:30 only one man, former Governor John I. Bates, had been heard in favor of the proposition. Bates appeared as a paid attorney.

Mr. Berle, pastor of Shawmut Congregational Church, had gone back to the beginning of the savings bank system to show that the idea fostered by the church when he said later on that the State ought to send "its poor parents" in the position of a parent to the savings bank. Hons. Caleb Mill Washburn of the Railroad Committee wanted to know if the question of parentage wasn't being decided a little.

"I come," said the Rev. Mr. Berle, "to realize as one who has attended hundreds of our frugal working people to the savings bank window, one who on many occasions has had to interpret for the new depositor in various languages the printed matter on his pass book. I am not here to discuss the transportation side of this subject, but as one who desires that Massachusetts continue to stand in the position of a parent to these institutions, which were never intended to be commercial enterprises, but for the benefit of our people who desire to save.

"I have been coming here now and again for fourteen years, and I never witnessed such a spectacle as I saw here yesterday, when the vice-president of this great corporation (referring to T. E. Byrnes) appeared here with tears in his very tones, weeping because the Commonwealth has misunderstood him and his associates, and begging all to believe that he is really good.

"And yet, amidst the lachrymal deluge, he did not forget to intimate his hope that those who oppose the railroad are 'really honest.'

"Mr. Chairman, if I could stick the moral stiletto into sin as skilfully as that, no church in Boston could hold the sinners that would want to hear me.

"Distinguished counsel for the railroad

RIVER DRAGGED FOR LOST GIRL

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., March 18.—The village of Norwood, St. Lawrence County, is greatly excited over the mysterious disappearance of Edith Badger, the twenty-two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Badger, formerly of Lowell, Mass., who was last seen on Tuesday morning leaving the grocery store of E. J. Hoff.

The girl was then going toward the river. It is feared that she drowned herself. The river bottom has been dragged by fifty men since Tuesday, without success. The family came here from Lowell and a brother of the girl, Arthur Badger, still resides in Lowell.

FIFTY CARRIED TO DEATH ON ICE FLOE

ST. PETERSBURG, March 18.—Trapped on an ice floe, fifty fishermen were carried away to certain death today from the mouth of the River Neva. The floe broke loose, drifting to the gulf of Finland in spite of the efforts of rescuers.

EX-ALDERMAN SMITH DEAD.

Clarence A. Smith, a former Alderman of Somerville and proprietor of several butter stores in surrounding cities, is dead at his home, No. 25 Munroe street, Somerville.

SENATOR DOYLE AT MASS WITH JOHN D.

Senator James H. Doyle of Boston arrived home today after seven weeks' rest at Augusta, Ga. He came there after several weeks' illness of pneumonia and grip. He was ill during the Fitzgerald-Draper campaign. Senator Doyle was at the State House this afternoon. It was his first appearance since then. This week his first appearance was when he qualified for five on the day he left for Georgia. "I'm getting well. I'll get right back into harness. As for my trip South, well, the most interesting thing that happened was that I went to mass last Sunday with John D. Rockefeller."

The AMERICAN is the Great Home Paper.

DETECTIVE IS ACCUSED IN RUSSELL CASE

Herbert Wiker, the Pinkerton detective who unearthed the famous Rixeus letters for William C. Russell, was today charged with having written one of the letters himself. The letter is signed James D. Russell. The charge that Walker wrote the letter was made by Dr. Albert H. Hamilton, handwriting expert for the United States government, testifying for the claimant Daniel Blake Russell, at the Russell will hearing.

The same letter which Walker is charged with having written was pronounced to be a forgery by two experts, Carmichael and Old, who testified for the claimant last week.

Dr. Hamilton was shown one of the exhibits and asked if he had examined it. He replied that he had. He was then questioned by Attorney Bannon.

Put Squarely Up to Walker.

Q.—In your opinion, doctor, was that letter written by the claimant. A.—No, sir.

Q.—Who did write it? A.—Herbert Walker, the Pinkerton detective.

Q.—Did you hear Walker testify? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And you also heard him deny writing this exhibit? A.—I did.

Q.—In your opinion, who wrote the address on the envelope? A.—I believe that the address was written by the same person who wrote the letter.

Dr. Hamilton then testified that another exhibit was not written by the claimant, as charged by the respondents, but was written after the claimant had given samples of his writing in court, while samples were photographed by Mr. Berry. Dr. Hamilton also said that the cancellation stamp on this same exhibit was not made in the regular postoffice manner.

Dr. Hamilton took the witness stand today just after the opening of court. He had just come from the trial of Senator Aldis at the Capitol in Albany, N. Y.

Declares Name a Forgery.

Dr. Hamilton was shown thirteen of the Rixeus letters, which he said that he had examined, also several other exhibits of handwriting, including the receipt signed by Daniel Blake, which he gave when he obtained the Rixeus letters. Dr. Hamilton testified that he had examined them.

"None of these Rixeus letters was written by the claimant," said Dr. Hamilton. "The name James Rixeus appearing in the Bissmer album is a forgery. Of those Rixeus letters, five of them have been created since I left the witness stand last December. The others were created before I began my testimony.

"The cancellation on one of these letters never could have been made by a postage cancellation stamp. It would be a physical impossibility. The grease which appears on this exhibit is real, in a sense, and not skunk oil, as Edward Russell has testified.

Second Erasure Trap.

"The back stamp on another envelopes is not of a government process. The address on that envelope was erased once, written again and then again erased."

At this point Judge Lawton asked why there was a second erasure. Dr. Hamilton replied that there was a second erasure there for the purpose of catching a witness on cross-examination.

John J. Ahearn of Melrose, first witness of the day, testified that he met James Axford on the street before he testified that the claimant was not Daniel Blake Russell.

"He told me that this claimant was surely Daniel Blake Russell," said the witness. "He told me that everybody around Melrose said that he was Daniel Blake Russell. He told me that he knew him because he, Axford, had worked at the Russell house at one time."

COLLECTOR AT LAST SURRENDERS TAXES

SOUTHBRIDGE, March 18.—It was only after threatening to put him in jail that former Tax Collector William R. Olney was induced this week by the selectmen to surrender $8,274 back taxes. Several demands were made during the last five years on Olney for the town funds still in his hands. He paid small sums from time to time, $50 or $100. The town failed to get a settling that "Old Bill" Olney would outmaneuver the town and get inside of the statute of limitations with upward of $3,000. There was a lot more paid over, but to-day Olney sent the overdue balance, and the matter was dropped.

PLAN 'WHITE PLAGUE' WAR AT CONFERENCE

ALBANY, N. Y., March 18.—"Within five years there will not be an uncared for case of tuberculosis in New York," declared Homer Folk, secretary of the State Charities Aid Association, today, opening the conference of the association here. In that he sounded the slogan of the organization. The meeting is attended by five hundred delegates from all over the State.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight London Time

Servian Prince May Wed Mohammedan Princess.

VIENNA—It is reported here that the coming visit of King Peter of Servia to Constantinople is for the purpose of arranging a marriage between his younger son, Crown Prince Alexander, and Princess Chadic, fourth daughter of the deposed Sultan Abdul Hamid. If such a marriage were arranged it would be the first occasion in centuries of a Mohammedan Princess marrying a non-Mohammedan.

King Edward Abhors Gambling.

LONDON—King Edward, who enjoys a rubber of bridge at $5 points, has never thrice expressed his reprobation of gambling generally. In a letter quoted by the Rev. Montague Fowler in a recent sermon the King says: "I have a horror of gambling and shall always do my utmost to discourage others who have an inclination for it, as a spirit of gambling, like intemperance, is one of the greatest evils that can afflict a country."

Russian Girls' Suicide Craze.

ST. PETERSBURG—Something like an epidemic of suicide, due to neurasthenia and melancholia, was recently remarked here, and further attention is now called to it by the suicides of three girls of social status, one of them an heiress to $10,000,000. The three met and after one of them had played Chopin's "Funeral March" all drank poison and died. They left letters saying they were tired of life. Fifteen other suicides, mostly girls, have been reported.

Carnival Days for Paris Rats

PARIS—The rats of the Paris sewers, driven from their homes by the great floods, have invaded some quarters of the city in such numbers that special means for their destruction have had to be taken. The regular band of municipal rat catchers were quite overwhelmed by the magnitude of the task, and their numbers have therefore been doubled.

Suffragettes Run a Fire Engine.

LONDON—The freaks of the suffragettes have hitherto caused more amusement than annoyance to the bulk of the Londoners, but more than a little indignation was excited when seven of them drove a hired fire engine at high speed through West End streets at a busy hour.

Spain Would Modify Concordat.

ROME—The Papal Nuncio at Madrid has transmitted to the Vatican the proposals of Senor Canalejas for the reform of the Concordat. They include the reduction of the salaries of archbishops, bishops and canons, reduction of the number of canons in all dioceses and abolition of all ecclesiastical privileges.

Jail For Violet Charlesworth.

LONDON—Violet Charlesworth, "the disappearing lady," whose wholesale frauds and victimizing of business men startled all England, must serve her sentence of three years in prison with her mother, Mrs. Miriam Charlesworth. The Court of Criminal Appeal to-day dismissed their appeals.

Rasmussen Going North Again.

COPENHAGEN—Knud Rasmussen, the famous Danish explorer, is preparing a new ethnographical expedition to Arctic regions. Starting during this Spring, the trip is expected to last three of four years. Its chief aim will be to study the Eskimo population.

New Beethoven Symphony.

LONDON—Landon Ronald intends to introduce to London the "Symphony in C Major," which, bearing the name of Beethoven, was discovered some weeks ago in the archives of the Jena Academy Concert Society, and negotiations are in progress to this end.

Count Boni Loses Court Fight.

PARIS—Count Boni de Castellane and one of his creditors, M. Lepere, to-day lost their fight in the Court of Appeals to have the furniture in the houses of the Duchess of Talleyrand (Anna Gould) declared the property of Boni, her former husband.

Skating Rink in the Quirinal.

ROME—The Quirinal is the first and at present the only royal palace in Europe of which a skating rink has been established. A large hall has been transformed into a rink twice a week the Queen invites ladies to skating parties.

HUGHES'S POLICIES HANG ON HEARING

ALBANY, N. Y., March 18.—The fate of Governor Hughes's policies and the control of the Republican party in New York now contended for by State Chairman Woodruff and the national leaders, the latter backing Governor Hughes, now hangs on the contest over the extension of the bribery investigation. Both sides are concentrating on this struggle, and it is likely that the future Republican course will depend almost entirely on the outcome.

MAN KILLED BY ROXBURY FALL

David White of No. 1 Winter street, Dorchester, was instantly killed today by the collapse of a staging upon which he was shingling the house of Irving B. Vose at No. 55 Crawford street, Roxbury. He fell twenty-five feet.

Another workman, Henry Gifford of No. 12 Wabash street, Roxbury, fell at the same time. His ribs were fractured and he was internally injured. He was taken to the City Hospital. His condition is serious.

The body of White was removed to the Vose house and the medical examiner notified.

Nobody saw the accident. Just what caused the staging to collapse is not known.

HISGEN TO SEE TAFT ON OIL

SPRINGFIELD, March 18.—Thomas L. Hisgen of the Four Brothers Oil Company and former candidate of the Independence party for President of the United States, is going to see President Taft about his suit to prove that the Texas company which supplies oil to the United States armory here is part of the Standard Oil Company.

Mr. Hisgen has retained Frank B. Kellogg, who was lawyer for the government in its suit against the Standard, to prosecute this suit against the Texas company. Special counsel for the State of Mississippi where a suit against the Standard is pending, has written Mr. Hisgen telling him the Texas concern is part of the Standard.

SOUTH ASKS FOR BABIES

NEW YORK, March 18.—To satisfy an unusually active demand for babies, centring chiefly around New Orleans and southern Louisiana towns, the New York Foundling and Orphan Asylum sent out a cargo of parentless babies in answer to letters from parents in comfortable but childless homes. Since then the quality of the home-brighteners sent out has proved of such a high order that the institution has been swamped with letters asking for babies, and is getting ready a second consignment.

WHO ARE BOSTON'S FORTY LIVE IMMORTALS? HERE ARE SOME SUGGESTIONS

Who do you think are the forty Boston men—live ones—most deserving of having their names enrolled in the Hall of Fame?

The BOSTON AMERICAN offers prizes consisting of a first prize of $10, a second prize of $5 and five prizes of $1 each, for the best lists.

Can you name Boston's FORTY IMMORTALS—live ones?

The State Street Trust Company of this city has issued a very handsome brochure giving a list of Forty Immortals—men of the past whose achievements would entitle them to places in Boston's Hall of Fame if Boston happened to have such a temple.

$20 in Cash Prizes.

Dead men are not nearly as good as live men, as everybody knows, and while the AMERICAN has no fault to find with the list prepared by the State Street Trust Company, this newspaper is much more interested in "live ones." For that reason readers of the AMERICAN are asked to submit the names of men now living in Boston or the metropolitan district whose achievements entitle them to places in a Hall of Fame that now or may not be built some of these days in this city.

For the best list of forty names the AMERICAN will pay $10. For the next best, $5, and for the next five best lists $1 for each list will be paid. Send letters to "Live Ones" Editor, the American, 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

Some Suggestions.

Following are some of the lists received today:

"Live Ones" Editor:

The following would be my idea of the Forty Live Ones, although some may be dead now at that:

Hamlin Grist, Charles W. Eliot
Curtis Guild, Jr., Edward Everett Hale
Curtis Guild, Sr., Moorfield Storey
A. Lawrence Lowell, Julian Mayne Tappan
James J. Storrow, John Lowell
Samuel Eliot, Edgar Scott Fogg
Chas. D. Dorian, George Alex. Morse
John H. Wood, Henry Clay Haughton
Robert Grant, Henry Cabot Lodge
Alfred Bult, Robert Treat Paine
Edwin Mead, Rev. Samuel A. Eliot
Rabbi Fleischer, Rev. Samuel M. Crothers
John T. Bramhall, Thomas W. Lawson
General Charles H. T. Collis, Jeffries Chadbourne
H. H. Hunnewell, Samuel J. Elder
W. Caspar Graf, Moses Williams Mason
William H. Taylor, William H. Moody
William Endicott, Dr. Lund

These are not arranged in order of their fame, but I am simply placing them for a place.

LAWYER BRIGHAM'S WILL IS OFFERED

The will of Clifford Brigham, who until his death two years ago was a prominent lawyer of Boston, was filed today in the Norfolk Probate Court, Dedham. The will leaves all the property of his estate, valued at about $40,000, to his widow, Mrs. Alice C. Brigham of 1051 Canton avenue, Milton. The will stated that should she die or survive him, various sums amounting to $20,000 should be distributed among various charitable institutions, churches and schools, and the rest should be divided among his three brothers, Thomas S., Lincoln S. and Augustus P.

BISHOP HITS AT CRITICS OF POLITICIANS

Bishop Lawrence in St. Paul's Church today prayed for the Mayor of Boston, the President of the United States and all others in authority.

This was after he had been talking about the relation of the Christian to the government. The bishop said: "There is a dangerous class in our communities, men and women, who criticise the public administration, say the officials are corrupt; say the are nothing but politicians; yet they have been chosen by the people, and all such critics do nothing towards the political life, but much harm.

"Let me say that those who are elected by the people are on the whole as good if not better than those who have elected them. Every man is to take his office at the value of what the people have placed it. Many politicians in their standards have been low, and yet they have been lifted up by the kind of support that the people have given them. This support has been strong, and strengthened by the honesty and frankness of the critics.

"The relation of the Christian to the government, to the States and cities, is in bearing a character worthy of the finest patriotism. Patriotism is not the waving of flags, not the extension of territories, but it is in character.

"We need a new definition for patriotism. Though I wave a flag every day of my life, and be not honest, I am not patriot, though I go to every caucus and have not character, I am no patriot.

"The one elected to office is a delegate of the Divine authority. He who is selected by the people is the power ordained of God to administer for the people. The voice of the people is the voice of God.

More AMERICANS are read in the homes in Boston than any other paper.

DANCE AS FLAMES MENACE BUILDING

To the strains of popular airs and melodies of the day 200 young men and women tripped the light fantastic in Meridian Hall, East Boston, ignorant of the fact that a fire was raging directly over their heads in the lodge room of the King Philip Lodge, Knights of Pythias. So closely was the secret guarded that the dancers knew nothing of the fire until after it had been extinguished, and what might have been a panic with serious results was cowardly averted by the presence of mind of the janitor of the building.

SAYS GRAND TRUNK WILL GET CHARTER

PROVIDENCE, March 18.—The opinion that the Grand Trunk Railway will secure its desired entrance into Rhode Island by the consent of the present General Assembly was confidently expressed by Chairman Horace S. Hassard of the House committee on corporations. This committee has the proposed charter under consideration, Mr. Hassard said:

"We will fix the Grand Trunk charter all right so the company can get in here. The committee will not be able to give the charter any study this week, but we will go to work upon it next week."

SWALLOWED NEEDLE COMES THROUGH NECK

LA CROSSE, Wis., March 18.—To swallow a needle and after carrying it around in his throat for many days have it work out through the neck was the experience which Birdsey, the three-year-old son of John A. Lunke, had. The real discovery Mrs. Lunke received of the lad's trouble was when he complained, after playing with his older brother, that Howard had pinched him in the lower part of the neck. Mrs. Lunke found a tiny point of steel, barely distinguishable, protruding from the skin directly alongside the windpipe. Close examination showed that it was a needle point, and that the rest of the steel was imbedded in the child's neck.

CRUSHED TO DEATH BOARDING TRAIN

NEW YORK, March 18.—Robert H. Church of Shelburne Falls, Mass., salesman for a New Haven, Ct., chemical company, was instantly killed at the Queens station of the Long Island railroad while trying to board a moving electric train. He lost his balance after grasping the hand railing of a car, fell and was crushed between the car and the platform.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 18.—The Rev. Francis Wetherell, curate of the Goddard memorial Episcopal Church, will resign on April 1 after a trip through the Holy Land. He will reside in Philadelphia.

PLAN TO HOLD BIG AVIATION MEETING HERE

There may be a grand international aviation meet in Boston next June, similar to the ones held at Rheims and Los Angeles.

Roy Knabenshue, representing the Wright brothers, came to Boston today. He conferred with President Charles J. Gibbden of the Aero Club of New England and with Henry Howard, chairman of the club's committee on aeroplanes, regarding the possibility of such a meet here.

Mr. Knabenshue, as representative of the Wrights, was highly favorable to the plan.

The principal question is that of a suitable aviation field, one at which 200,000 or more spectators could be accommodated to witness the flights.

After the conference Mr. Knabenshue went to Readville to inspect the Readville track grounds. It has been suggested that they would make a fine aviation field.

It is planned, if suitable grounds can be obtained, to have at least six aeroplanes competing in this Boston meet. Chester I. Campbell, the automobile show manager, will probably be asked to take general charge of the meet.

Such an aviation meet as is proposed would be the first one ever held on the Atlantic coast, and would attract thousands of people to the city.

STARS SHOW TROUBLE FOR SUFFRAGISTS

If the prophecies of the astronomers are to be believed, 1910 will be a disastrous year for the suffragists and their cause, and they will have the planet Jupiter to blame for it. One of the leaders of the movement in Boston was told all about it in a letter she received the other day from a member of the star-gazing fraternity. "Astronomers," the writer explained, "are guided by the regent planet in forecasting broad tendencies. As everyone knows, Jupiter is a rigid dispenser of hard, prosaic justice. Woe betide all frivolous and vexatious causes in Jupiter's regency, for the direct effect of his reign usually is to overthrow and blot out all traces of Saturn's perfervid work." The suffragist who received this effusion declines to be discouraged, however, as she refuses to regard her cause as merely a piece of "Saturnine barbarous work."

SHUBERTS PUT BAN ON PASSES

NEW YORK, March 18.—Announcement is made by the Shuberts that hereafter no more passes will be issued for the Shubert theatres, not only in New York, but throughout the United States. This step was taken, they say, because the privilege had been abused. "Professional courtesies" or passes issued to actors will be eliminated along with other passes. Professional matinees of the Shubert plays will be given, however, at which members of the theatrical profession will be welcome.

TRIED DEATH BY GAS, BUT WILL LIVE

CONCORD, N. H. March 18.—A man who registered as Fred Ritchie of Boston, but whose real name is Johnston, and supposed to live in Montreal, was found unconscious from asphyxiation in his room at the Eagle Hotel. He was removed to the hospital and will recover.

Johnston said his reason for attempting suicide was that he was tired of life, and regretted that he did not succeed. It is said his will was found among papers in his room.

Almost everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

PUTS OUT LIGHT; DIES ON STAIRS

CHATHAM, March 18.—It has just become known that James P. Smith, keeper of the light at Monomy Point, died last Saturday.

Mr. Smith was sixty-eight years old and was attending to his regular duties when stricken. He complained of being ill Saturday morning and after extinguishing the light started to descend the tower.

It almost seemed as though his own life went out with the snuffing of the tower light, for he died on the stairway.

FIRST WINDMILL SHIPPED ABROAD

The first windmill ever sent to Europe from this country is to be shipped on the liner Sannio, of the Navinagione Generali Italiana, which sails tomorrow for Naples and Genoa. The windmill is to be set up near the Pardanelles, and the different parts of it will fill thirty boxes on the liner. It is consigned to F. H. Bacon.

GOSSIP PICKS BRIDE FOR COL. J. J. ASTOR

NEW YORK, March 18.—Colonel John Jacob Astor, the richest eligible in New York society, may or may not be engaged. Mrs. Adolph Ladenburg, named by rumor as the woman in the case, laughs and declines to commit herself. Ever since Colonel Astor's dinner dance and cotillon on the eve of his divorce, society has been busy providing him with a future partner. He and the handsomest widow in New York society have been seen together frequently and gossip promptly became busy with their affairs.

PRAYER CHAIN DENOUNCED BY MINISTERS

"O, Lord Jesus, I implore Thee to bless all mankind and take them to dwell in eternity."

This was sent me by a friend. copy it and see what will happen. It is said that those who write it experience great joy, but those who do not write it will meet with calamity and misfortune. Write this to a different friend every day for nine days. Do not break the chain.

This is the wording of a circular, or endless chain, prayer letter which is being sent broadcast to members of churches in Boston. No one knows who originated the prayer chain and the best ministers do not much care then, since the whole thing silly.

The endless chain of prayer letters and no church indorsement, no eternal support. Similar circulars are being circulated in parishes in other large cities. The letter, it "solemnly and authoritive" is taken seriously by some superstitious persons and that has kept the scheme going.

Bishop Lawrence of the Episcopal church, in a letter to

"The chained letter, which asks prayers to be said in a certain manner, is without my endorsement, and the use of my name in this connection is without my consent."

Rev. Herbert S. Johnson of the Walnut Avenue Baptist church, says: "I do not like this prayer chain. There's no sense in it and it's merely superstitious.

"This is an hysterical fad," says Rev. Dr. Charles E. Park (Unitarian), Berkeley and Marlboro streets. "It is not a form of prayer."

"Such cranks as this remain I call endless nonsense," says Rev. Dr. George W. King of the People's Temple. "I shall not take any stock in it. It must undoubtedly be the work of a fanatic."

Rev. Dr. A. A. Berle of the Shawmut Congregational Church says: "It is wrong to juggle with prayer in this way. It is radically wrong and profane."

WATER FRONT BILL URGED BY ROTHWELL

Henry M. Whitney and Bernard J. Rothwell, the latter president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, spoke before the Legislative committee on Metropolitan affairs at the State House today, advocating the passage of Mr. Whitney's bill for the development of the East Boston water front. This bill provides that the State shall turn over to a railroad or a terminal company the Commonwealth pier in East Boston so that docks with rail connections may be built there. This is part of the plan advocated by Maxon Fitzgerald and the Boston Chamber of Commerce for the building up of Boston's commercial prestige.

FEARS HUSBAND WAS LURED TO DEATH

That George S. Densmore of No. 100 Draper street, Dorchester, who has been missing since Tuesday, was lured to a deserted stable in the neighborhood of East Boston and murdered by gain proceeds of $500 that he had with him at the time is the belief of his wife.

The police and private detectives, who have searched East Boston stables and visited all the morgues, have failed to find a clue. The police today plan to drag the Charles river and the harbor in search of Densmore's body.

MUST REPORT EACH NIGHT TO JUDGE

Jeremiah Murphy of Fountain street, Medford, has his choice of either reporting to the Medford police headquarters each night, or go to jail for six months. This order was given Murphy by Judge Bruce after he was arraigned on the charge brought by his wife.

The judge sentenced him to six months in the House of Correction but his wife pleaded with the court on the ground that she needed her husband's support for herself and three children. The court then suspended the sentence and issued the order which appears to be for an indefinite time.

MAY COMPROMISE RAILROAD DISPUTE

CHICAGO, March 18. Despite the open and emphatic declarations of both sides that they will not yield on the seniority and representation rules, it was understood today that Interstate Commerce Commissioner Knapp and Labor Commissioner Neill had made material progress in their efforts to bring about peace between the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and forty-seven railroads. The conferences were resumed to-day the Federal officials striving to find a compromise basis.

PICKPOCKETS JAILED FOR HOLIDAY THEFTS

Two young men caught stealing pocketbooks from women in the Evacuation Day parade in South Boston yesterday were to-day sent to the House of Correction by Judge Fallon in the South Boston Court. They, Fred Lessar, eighteen, and Joseph Lessar, twenty-two, and Raphael Gaete, twenty-one, both of Revere street, Boston, got two months. The women who lost their purses have not reported as yet. One of the pocketbooks contained $1.82 and the other 11 cents.

'I'M SO GLAD TO BE HOME,' SAYS KIDNAPPED GIRL

Adrienne and Phyllis Warren, the two children whose father used a ruse to kidnap them a week ago, are safely back with their mother at their home at No. 45 Standish street, Dorchester.

Charged with polygamy, Franklin H. Warren, the father, is now under arrest and confined in jail at Providence pending the signing of the necessary papers to bring him back to bring him back to this city for trial.

The mother of the children was also in the divorce proceedings for a divorce through her attorneys.

The circumstances attending the abduction of the children by their father and their subsequent return to their mother, inside of a week, intermingled with the arrest and court proceedings, reads like a chapter in a novel.

The children are delighted to be with their mother and grandmother again. The little ones were traced to a boarding house in Providence where the mother reclined ill.

"Oh, I'm so glad to be back at home, Mamma Adrienne said today. "Where is poor Anne here and took Phyllis and ran away with him? He said that mamma was coming to see us, but he lied. Then she didn't come and grandma didn't come and Phyllis and me wanted so much to be back with them.

"Papa came and took us away. He said he was taking us to a new home. He said that mamma was sick and that she would soon come to us when she got well again.

"Papa told us our new home was in Norfolk Downs. We used to live there, didn't we?

"I kept asking papa about mamma, and he always said grandma, too. One day my papa said to me: 'I have been very cross with mamma, and unless she promises to be good you will never see her again.' Then Phyllis and I both cried. But mamma came and got us yesterday. Oh, weren't we glad when we saw her.

"Papa was kind to us all the time, but he acted so funny. He would cry and then look so cross, and he was always kind to us. The woman he took us to was good to us, but she wasn't our mamma, and we would cry at night when she would put us in bed. Papa was good to us. He got us nice new clothes and then two lovely dollies."

arms for their failure to obey the will of the House, or to do both.

While this report could not be confirmed, nevertheless it was insistently repeated.

Regulars Offer a Compromise.

throughout the capitol this afternoon.

Representative Astin of South Dakota, a near insurgent, suggested in a speech that the committee on rules should consist of ten members, six to be chosen by the majority and four by the minority, to be elected by party caucus, the Speaker not to be a member. The committee would elect its own chairman.

This was said to be the compromise offered by the regulars, and it was believed that if submitted to the House it would be adopted. The effect of this would be to save the regulars from a complete defeat, while at the same time it would be a great victory for the insurgents.

The Speaker himself is exhausted, nearly to physical breakdown. He returned to the chair at 6:30 a. m., after a brief rest in his room.

Early this morning when he appeared about to break down completely he consented to leave the chair for a time. His replies to the attack of the Democrats and insurgents were delivered with a trembling voice. His hand shook when he raised the gavel and he appeared to have aged years since the opening of the great fight.

Some of the Republicans who remained through the entire debate were in little better condition. Haggard-faced and worn, weary hand, the Democrats full of confidence and the Republicans fearful of defeat, but determined to fight to the last.

Cannon Refuses Ruling.

At 1:55 the Cannon filibusterers failed in their fourth attempt to force an adjournment but by the close vote of 154 to 146. The next move was to send some of their men home to an attempt to break a quorum. Cannon refused positively to make a ruling from which an appeal could lie.

At 2 o'clock after ten and a half hours of continued wrangling, allied Democrats and insurgent Republicans on the one side and Speaker Cannon and the stalwart Republicans on the other were still deadlocked.

At 3:10 a. m. a call of the House was ordered. Republican leaders having sent away a number of the regulars to break a quorum and thereby force adjournment. The sergeant-at-arms was directed to round up missing members.

At 2:30 o'clock the Republican members had slipped out and broken a quorum. The call of the house showed but 154 members present.

Mr. Underwood, the Democratic whip moved that the sergeant-at-arms arrest the absentees and bring them before the bar of the house. Speaker Cannon with a broken voice and trembling hand, gave the order. He looked a poor, broken old man.

Three times during the fight the Democrats dared the test of numbers and put the question of strength to a test upon a motion to take a recess. Each time they lost, the first time by a vote of 142 to 147, and that was the real test, the second time by a vote of 139 to 146, and the third time by 134 to 142.

It was a filibuster of the regulars and for which it is charged Speaker Cannon was directly responsible. The allies tried to force a vote to clinch the victory their present majority assures them, but the regulars played for time to bring up their recruits. And recruits fought with all the grim determination of a cat defending the last of its nine lives.

The ranks of the Democrats were packed all through the night, but the freshness and the fire of battle departed from the ranks toward dawn. Down upon the floor that struggling mass of statesmen that had been contending with votes and lungs all night became wan faced, jaded and limp.

Peace for Half Hour.

Finding no quorum present, the Democrats demanded that the sergeant-at-arms be sent forth to arrest recalcitrants and bring them in. Ignoring the custom, the doors were closed shut. One of the exits of the rear body, however, was apparently left wide but a weak guard, for four around form of Sereno Payne and one or two prominent Republicans were seen slipping through, off down the marble corridors and out into the night.

Quiet settled over the chamber, and Speaker Pro Tem Dalzell failed in his efforts to play with the gavel and occasionally chatting with members who strolled up to the rostrum.

Ollie James Has an Idea.

Ollie James, the big Kentuckian, roamed around the hall in search of Republicans to join. It occurred to him finally that the work of the sergeant-at-arms might be expedited if the Democratic whips and colleagues were turned loose with the sergeant-at-arms. He accordingly sought the attention of the chair and made a formal inquiry as to their possible use. He received a lot of jostling from the Republican side for his pains, and the suggestion that his assistance be set forth to bring in Democrats, several of whom were missing.

Then some one got the floor and moved to adjourn. Representative Dalzell in the chair gravely put the question and it was voted down by a division vote, 10 to 6. The Democrats by this time were plainly irritated over the delay in rounding up the absentees and began to fire questions at the presiding officer as to whether any members of all had been arrested and brought before the House.

"I am informed that several have been reported," replied Dalzell.

"How many?" was shouted by several Democrats.

"I am informed that six have answered to their names since the order was issued," replied the speaker pro tem.

"There are all Democrats. Where are the Republicans?" shouted James.

Ohio Man Loses Temper.

The hour of 3 was approaching by this time, and it brought results in the shape of one Republican, Representative Hollingsworth of Ohio, who had carefully primed himself with another weary Democrat at midnight and had gone to his hotel to sleep. He advanced down the aisle with a determined air and in stentorian tones announced a parliamentary inquiry.

"We have been aroused from my bed at an hour when all good Republicans like myself should be in bed," he demanded. "Why have I been placed under arrest? I was paired with a perfectly good Democrat and I went home to my hotel to get some rest. Who was the lackyland who presented a warrant for my arrest and who made the motion that I be arrested?"

The members left their seats and crowded around the Ohioan howling in glee and giving him all sorts of foolish answers such as: "You were arrested for pairing with a Democrat;" and "You were pinched for trying to insurge." The Republicans looked wonderingly around and then challenged any person to keep him under arrest.

During Representative's Hollingsworth's dissertation as to his injured feelings the racket in the House rivalled a boiler factory. Every one of the hundred members present, Democrats and Republicans alike, either took a hand at poking fun at Mr. Hollingsworth or howled forth their lusty lungs and pounded the desks. Finally at the suggestion of Representative Murdock order was restored.

Horseplay in the Record.

Representative Gardner professed to be scandalized at the debate with Hollingsworth, which was duly taken down by the official reporters as near as they could get it in the hubbub, and asked that the section be expunged from the record. Representative Mudd assured the consistent party and ruled that the motion could not be entertained, while the House had no organization.

Mr. Hollingsworth's remarks and the horseplay behind them will accordingly appear in the record.

Speaker Cannon relieved Dalzell of the gavel at 6:30 a. m. He looked dishevied after his short rest in his office. He also appeared a few moments after he had taken his seat that he had returned to meet more trouble.

Cannon Defies the Enemy.

A query by Representative Burleson soon disclosed what it was. The Speaker had declined to sign the warrants ordered for service by Sinnott, the appointee of the Democrats. Burleson asked the Speaker point blank if he done so. Cannon declined to answer, whereupon a parliamentary wrangle started which lasted for some time, during which the Speaker pared many of his artful ways of letting a question slide or dodging lethal circumstances which suddenly pinned up. The Speaker was given the plain question as to whether a smaller number than a quorum could furnish the House with a quorum.

The Speaker then quoted sections of the constitution which he said gave the House the right to prescribe specific rules and limits methods of raising a quorum. He said he would not uphold the Democratic system that had been followed.

Representative Underwood pleaded that a quorum was necessary and that the House should have it.

Representative James inquired whether the action of the party assisting gave quorum in sending a police officer for absentees was legal. The Speaker dodged by ruling the question was too far out and is parliamentary question.

At 7:20 a motion was announced by the Speaker, several "arrested" members having straggled in. Representative Olmsted immediately moved to dispense with further proceedings. The House by yeas and nays, twenty-nine not voting.

Representative Mann clamored for a quorum, saying that the doors were closed and he did not like doing business in secret. At 8 o'clock Republican members began to straggle in. Fully 80 per cent. of the Republicans had managed to get a few hours sleep at home. The Democrats held forty-five per cent. of their members in the chamber all night.

BANK MEN OPPOSE MELLEN BOND PLAN

has said that the question of public opinion applied here. It certainly does, Mr. Chairman, but what has happened to create this public opinion? Has it dropped out of the sky?

"No, Mr. Chairman, a generation has risen up whose youth was blighted by the predecessors of those on the opposite side days of the Oakes and Pinks in the West. I hold it a most remarkable advance when the vice-president of one of these great corporations feels it necessary to come and defend his moral character.

"Why, sir, the bar sinister is on the very fundament of this proposition. I refer to the 'holding company' device. The holding company as a legal device is anathema to Shylock at this moment throughout the land. Poll the best attorneys of the United States to-day and they will vote that the holding company is itself a sinister influence and, for the most part, has been used in a manner detrimental to the public interest.

"As for the corporation itself, I say that no man—no mere individual with a habitat and a name—who dared to flaunt the laws of this Commonwealth as they have done for three or four years past, would be allowed to walk the streets of liberty."

Banks Unanimously Opposed.

United opposition was brought by the savings banks interests against the bill fathered by Governor Draper to make the bonds of the Boston Railroad Holding Company legal investments for Massachusetts savings banks, the bonds to be guaranteed by the New Haven Railroad.

It was the second day of the hearing and the attendance was far greater than had been anticipated. The savings bank men opposed the bill as a unit. F. A. Shove, treasurer of the Malden Savings Bank, was the spokesman for the bankers and sounded a warning against allowing the influence of the Governor or any body else to change the policy of allowing the savings banks to make only the most conservative investments.

"I want to say this," said Mr. Shove. "Any time you admit any investment (to anticipate bonds) by special legislation at the request of only the persons who want to get the money, you injure not only the confidence of the depositors in the stability of the banks, but you injure the stability of the banks themselves."

Mr. Shove gave an example of how distrust had been the only bit of special railroading in favor of one corporation's security—the bonds of the American Telephone Company.

"I have mingled with bank men widely," he continued, "and I have not found a single bank man who favors this proposition. An amendment to a bill passed by the Legislature two years ago made the bonds of the telephone company legal investment for savings banks. Now, if on bought the Telephone is, and we wish now we had not. We can buy them now at four points lower, and that makes a big difference to the depositors.

Frameup on Phone Bill.

"This telephone law was put through without a hearing. The thing was framed up in the house."

Representative Washburn of Worcester, chairman of the House Committee on Railroads, asked:

"Was any bank man consulted on the matter of legalizing the telephone bonds for investments?"

Mr. Shove—The first information we got was that the thing was going to be pushed through whether we wanted it or not.

Washburn again: I want to understand you correctly. Did you say that you had not found a single bank man who is in favor of this measure?

Shove—I certainly did.

The hearing was held before the legislative committees on Banks and Banking and Railroads, sitting jointly. The other speaker at the early session was former Representative Daniel J. Kiley, who appeared as a depositor. He expressed fear having deposits in three savings banks and spoke against the measure.

ECZEMA VICTIM GAVE UP HOPE

After Suffering a Year with Raw, Watery Humor on Hands and Face —Prescriptions Did Not Do a Bit of Good—Scratched Till Blood Came and Had to Quit Work.

COMPLETELY CURED BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I suffered with eczema for one year and had two of the best doctors in town, but their medicine did not help me. At first my hands were small white pimples on my left hand and I had to scratch until the blood came. Then they would puff up and water would run out. Wherever that water would run there would be more pimples until my whole left hand was a mass of sores. Then my other hand became affected and they were like a piece of raw meat. Then it came on my face, neck and under my right arm so that I was unable to raise my arm for two weeks. It became so bad that I was obliged to give up work.

"About four months ago I started to doctor and the doctor told me it was eczema. So he told me to get ointment and soap. I used them for a month and they didn't do me one bit of good so I tried another doctor. He gave me three different kinds of medicines, but I was very much put out when those remedies did not help me. I was unable to sleep at night and I gave up all hope until I decided to try the Cuticura Remedies. I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, and was glad to say I am cured. Miss Nora Shultz, 243 North Third St., Reading, Pa., Jan. 4 and 7, 1909."

UNION PROBES DEATH OF MAN IN POLICE CELL

An investigation into the death of Joseph Gormley, who choked to death four hours after being placed in a cell at Lagrange street police station, will be asked for at the meetings of Plumbers' Union No. 12, according to the business agent, Thomas L. Pratt.

Members of the union declare that the man was choked to death by his collar, because of the position he was placed in and with a little intelligent attention could have saved his life by lifting his into another position and relieving the pressure on his throat. The coroner's verdict was unconscious.

"For the good of the general public and in justice to the memory of our deceased brother, I shall introduce a resolution at the next meeting of the union, demanding a thorough investigation into the death of Mr. Gormley," said Mr. Pratt to an AMERICAN reporter, "so that no carelessness or his death is the cause of negligence on the part of the Boston police. We have reason to believe so.

"Gormley was thirty-three years old and single. He came to Boston a short time ago from Newark. He was employed during the past few weeks on the cold storage plant on Summer street, East Boston, excavating for a new building.

A coroner's jury will be empaneled to-day by Medical Examiner Timothy Leary to investigate the death of Joseph Gormley, who died in the Lagrange street police station Wednesday night.

"An official told me that Gormley had died from strangulation caused by his collar. Well, he had to have a collar on. That's why didn't you go into the cell and open the collar or allow him to escape. After inaction so as to relieve the pressure on his throat?' The only reply he gave me was, 'We sent for a doctor right away.'

"I said 'Yes, but it was a dead did that doctor.' The info is dead now. If you had taken his collar off you would have saved his life. Is that the way in which you take care of helpless prisoners?

"Before I get this information from the officer he insulted me by asking me my name and address, where I worked, and where I came from, etc. Finally I said to him, 'I am not a prisoner here.' I came here for information, not to be questioned about my past life."

PUT BAN ON CHEAP SHOWS AT SMITH

NORTHAMPTON, March 18.—From the cultured precincts of Smith College to the moving picture halls and the "five-cent-thirty" melodrama houses, is an excursion that has been officially banned by the strict control of the women's college here. The women have requested the students not to attend entertainments of the type mentioned. The girls have looked upon the ban as the cheapest form of amusement as "barks" and have been attending in such large numbers that action was considered necessary.

HORSE GETS PART OF HER ALIMONY

PLAINFIELD, N. J., March 18.—The wife of Hugh A. Todd asked Vice-Chancellor Howell at Newark for $25 a week for separate maintenance, telling the court a horse belonging to her husband was worth $6 a week. Finding no law for a horse sharing in alimony the court gave her $24 a week—$6 more than she asked.

CAUSE OF DEBILITY

Is to Be Looked for in the Condition of the Blood.

Experience of a Baltimore Man Who Was Badly Run Down From Overwork.

Thin blood is the most frequent cause of debility. As the supply of blood sent to the brain does not carry sufficient nourishment the patient is dull and drowsy, the nerves become starved and there are marked nervous symptoms. As the blood and nerves control digestion the stomach suffers from lack of tone and the victim loses weight and strength.

The treatment for this condition is to build up the blood and a blood tonic that also directly strengthens the nerves is best suited to promote rapid and permanent improvement. Such a remedy is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mr. W. J. Daily, of No. 1012 South Paca street, Baltimore, Md., recommends Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to any one in need of a tonic. He says:

"In 1907 I was in a general run-down condition from overwork. I had severe pains through the shoulders, across the chest, and the small of the back. The pains across my back were so severe that I could hardly straighten up. Frequently these were sharp pains through out my body which felt as though I was being cut with a knife. My suffering became so intense that I was greatly reduced in flesh.

"At first I doctored myself but found no help after trying several different remedies. Then I was treated by the doctors but they also failed to help me. I had been sick for a year before I learned of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through talking with a friend. I decided to give the pills a trial and had taken them only a short time before I noticed they were helping me. My appetite picked up and I was able to get a good night's rest. Soon I was entirely free from pain in my back and gained in weight. My cure was complete and I am still in good health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been used with equally good results and are recommended for anemia, chlorosis, rheumatism, lumbago, and the after-affects of the grip and fevers.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

BOSTON MAN'S OPERA SUNG AT METROPOLITAN

A grand opera in English by a Boston man is sung at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York to-night. It is the first time that the English language has been used in opera in this, the greatest American opera house, and it marks an epoch in the musical history of the country.

The opera is "The Pipe of Desire," a grand opera in one act by Frederick S. Converse, a director in the Boston Opera Company, a former instructor at Harvard and at the Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Converse is considered one of the greatest American composers. Various complete works of his have been played by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, several compositions are in the repertoire of the best American and even European singers, and his ballad "An Indie Dance Song Mere" is famous.

Mr. Converse was born in Newton in 1871. "The Pipe of Desire" was finished more than three years ago and produced in Boston at Jordan Hall. It was performed several times with success. Walter Damrosch conducted at those performances. The success of the opera led the Metropolitan Company to secure the rights to it, but performance was postponed again and again.

All America Cast.

The Metropolitan Opera House managers were not anxious to inaugurate a policy which might result in a demand that all operas be sung in English. Mr. Converse finally insisted that his opera be produced or returned to him, and the long delayed production is to be made.

The singers to-night are all Americans and they sing in their native tongue. The tenor is Ricardo Martin, the contralto Louise Homer, and Lemora Sparkes, Glenn Hall, Whitehall and Witherspoon are in the cast, while Herta Comboldt.

Mr. Converse will be present with a large party of Boston friends, including Eben Jordan. Henry Russell of the Boston Opera House, will also attend the performance.

"The Pipe of Desire."

The libretto is the work of George E. Barton, a Boston architect. It is a fairy opera and its scene is laid in modern land at no time. The characters are gnomes and fairies, all save a nun and a woman, a shepherd, merry men of Sherwood, gnomes and fairies who are in festival. They have a chief called "The Old One," who pleas for them upon a pipe known as "The Pipe of Desire." John arrives at the pipe from the old one when he learns that he who plays it can have what he desires.

GETS JURY AWARD FOR FALSE ARREST

FITCHBURG, March 18.—A jury to-day gave Michael F. Kittredge of Clinton the sum of $9,413 for injury to his feelings caused when he was wrongfully arrested and imprisoned for two hours in 1908. The defendant was Constable Jake Riedhammer of Clinton.

MAN IS SAVED FROM DEATH BY LEARY SERUM

Once more the life of a dying man has been saved by the remarkable serum for the cure of pneumonia discovered by a Boston man. The last cure, remarkable because the patient was dying and all hope of curing him by other means had been given up, was in the case of Edward Hindle, a young artist, of No. 63 Parker street, New Bedford, son of a wealthy cotton factor.

The serum used is known as pneumococcus, and was discovered by Dr. Timothy Leary of Tufts Medical School. It has worked wonders in ordinary cases of pneumonia, and only recently startled the medical world by proving successful in a case of septicemiaplegia, a dread disease, for which there was believed to be no remedy.

Young Hindle was seriously ill with pneumonia. Doctors doubted whether they could save his life because the disease advanced so rapidly for the ordinary cure. As a last resort they tried the new remedy. On the first injection of the remedy the youth's condition changed marvellously. And within a few days he was pronounced out of danger. In a week he was about the house, and is now enjoying the best of health.

10 NEW MEMBERS ON 1915 MOVEMENT

At a meeting held in Ford Hall, the shareholders of the 1915 movement elected ten new members of their enlarged Board of Directors. Five were chosen from the suburban districts, and five others from the city of Boston. More than 2,000 names of contributing members were considered in electing the new directors. Bertrand Thompson, organization secretary, reported the classifying under thirteen heads of the 1640 organizations of Boston. At present the directors now number eighty-five, all of whom have been elected except those elected from religious organizations. On next Monday the seventy-nine directors already elected, will enter upon the work for the year.

DRUM MAJOR'S DEATH MOURNED

The death of "Hinkie" Clary, Boston's most famous drum major, calls forth a tribute from the New York Sun in the piece of picturesque humor which deal with his passing. Says the Sun editorially:

"A drum major is no more made than a poet or a fisherman. It is born. "The death of 'Hinkie' Clary, Boston's most famous drum major, calls forth a tribute from the New York Sun in the piece of picturesque humor which deal with his passing. Says the Sun editorially:

"A drum major is no more made than a poet or a fisherman. It is born. Hinkie's rarity and the honor with Boston nurtures Hinkie Clark are not only among the admits of New England on to the various displays in every great military parade. Apparently there is no one to fill his place. This recalls the words of a old army officer who passed from a non-municipal outdoor show after a sight from Napoleon and drooling forever and

NEW "ALPHABET FOR HEALTH"

A Western philosopher has found inspiration in his prairie air for the following "Alphabet of Health," which was received in Boston by this morning's mail:

Abstain from intoxicating liquors.
Breathe good air.
Consume no more food than the body requires.
Drink pure water.
Exercise daily.
Find congenial occupation.
Give the body frequent baths.
Have regular habits.
Insure good digestion by proper mastication.
Justify right living by living right.
Keep your head cool and your feet warm.
Laugh at trouble.
Make definite hours of sleep.
Never bolt your food.
Overexertion is to be shunned.
Preserve an even temperament.
Question the benefit of too much medicine.
Remember, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."
Sacrifice money, not health.
Temperance in all things.
Under no condition allow the teeth to decay.
Vanish superstition.
Worry not at all.
X-tend the teachings of this alphabet to others.
Yield not to discouragement.
Zealously labor in the cause of health and gain everlasting reward.

HAMLIN THINKS FOSS A WINNER

The prediction is made by Charles S. Hamlin, after a tour of Cape Cod, that Congressman Eugene N. Foss would be returned over William Buchanan by a majority of at least 2,500.

To-day the candidate is on the Cape, speaking in the towns on the east and south shores. To-morrow evening the biggest rally of the campaign will be held at Attleboro.

George E. Keith, who was on the Harris ticket as a delegate from Ward 1 in the Republican caucuses held at Brockton and was defeated, is now a supporter of William H. Buchanan.

Buchanan was nominated over John Harris, former Senator Whedlay and Eugene N. Foss by Keith has said Mr. Buchanan the following telegram from Cincinnati:

"As a Republican I deem it my duty to support you as the party candidate."

GEORGE E. KEITH.

This telegram, read by Buchanan men as significant, indicating that Keith is for supporters of Eugene N. Foss, in the Ward that there is widespread Republican dissatisfaction, is authorized. Judge Harris has made no comment, but on account of his official position that was not anticipated.

In addition to this a statement signed by every Republican member of the Legislature is made public. Each legislator declares his support to William H. Buchanan, among them being Senator Moses S. Wood of Malden, who was active in the fight of as a possible candidate for congressional nomination himself as he later supported Judge Harris.

MORGAN HEADS BIG BANK MOVE

NEW YORK, March 18.—The Standard Oil and Morgan interests have combined in a colossal scheme to wrest from England and Germany the banking business of Central and South America.

The project, consummation of the establishment of a complete system of banks in the southern Republics, to be operated in conjunction with those of this country. If the scheme as outlined in Wall street is worked out it will mean, for one thing, your Economics which is now in England and German banking houses every year, month for extending money in connection with trade transactions between the United States and Central and South America will be turned to this country. It will also open up a big banking business by which this country will immediately profit.

SOUTH BOSTON DEFENDED BY JUDGE FALLON

Judge Fallon of the South Boston District Court took occasion to-day to call the attention of the citizens of Boston to the fact that his much-maligned district furnished only nine cases of drunkenness on the holiday, out of forty made by the police.

Before the opening of court he called an AMERICAN reporter to the bench and made the following statement:

"Out of forty arrests for drunkenness yesterday only nine were residents of South Boston. I wish the AMERICAN would make the good people of Boston realize that it is a shame to think that South Boston has to stand for all the bad deeds of persons who come here from other parts of the city and the suburbs.

"This evil exists especially during the Summer, when thousands are attracted to City Point and the parks.

ROOSEVELT OFF TO CONQUEST OF NEW LANDS

By A. J. LAMBERT.

Special correspondent of the BOSTON AMERICAN with the Roosevelt party.

Special Cable to Boston American.

KHARTOUM, March 18. Theodore Roosevelt is on his way to Cairo, like Alexander, to conquer new fields. Sondan belongs to him absolutely, lock, stock and barrel. His speech Wednesday evening was the climax, and the capitulation came yesterday. Khartoum and the Soudan both among the Europeans and natives are ringing with his words.

His remarkable and unprecedented visit to Khartoum has emphasized Colonel Roosevelt's power of leading people and has so shown that it is not confined to America, but it is applicable to every community wherein he moves. An American who is confessedly anti-Roosevelt was forced to-day to the admission that he certainly "delivers the goods."

Wanted: English Roosevelt.

The impression which he created in out-of-the-way places like Morgalla was repeated here. An Englishman after English-man said to me to-day:

"What a shame it is that England has no man like Roosevelt."

That expression can be said to represent the unanimous opinion here. It is impossible to evade the fact that Colonel Roosevelt has a lariat personality that forcibly encircles and holds every one he meets.

An illustration occurred when Colonel Roosevelt, meeting Colonel Hutchinson, again observed:

"Oh, yes, it is seventeen or eighteen bullets that you carry in your body."

Factor in African Affairs.

Though refusing to comment on the political affairs of his native land, Mr. Roosevelt has entered as a wedge Egyptian politics. His visit has greatly gratified the British Governors, and the fact that he has thrown his powerful influence and personality with them against the factions that are working for Egypt national independence has attracted the attention of the entire country.

His speeches at Khartoum, particularly his last, in which he condemned the political activities of native officers, have rendered him the representative of Great Britain. While he is spending north with his family the shooting bonfires on the plains for his reception at Cairo were made to-day. The city will be en fete during his entire stay. The British consul at the Khedive's court there will be his host. Many tours and festivities have been arranged, and Mr. Roosevelt will be asked to address the students of the Egyptian university. It is believed he will take this opportunity to repeat his strictures on the Nationalists.

NORTH DAKOTA IN COMMISSION APRIL 6

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Uncle Sam's navy will gain two more battleships inside of three weeks, for orders have been issued by the navy department to take over from the contractors and commission the Delaware and the North Dakota, sister ships, of 20,000 tons each. The Delaware will be commissioned at Norfolk April 4, and the North Dakota at Boston, two days later.

MEN'S EASTER HATS AT CHAMBERLAIN'S

Women and girls no longer have a monopoly on Easter hats. Every man living within reach of Boston can have an Easter hat by going to Chamberlain's, Nos. 609 and 637 Washington street, where Easter hats, Easter neckwear, Easter shirts and Easter gloves are being exhibited in profusion. The firm promises to make the prices just right, too. The Bencomelli, the Royal Canary and the Revelation are new shapes, and to be had only at Chamberlain's. Neckties—the very latest and most affected shades—collars, shirts—just everything men want for Easter wear—all at Chamberlain's.

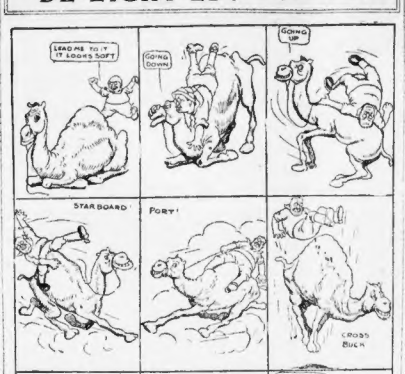
DE-LIGHT-ED? - - - - -



At last, it is reported, Colonel Roosevelt has found something too strenuous for him. It is the meek but not lowly camel, "the ship of the desert." Colonel Roosevelt after a brief voyage on one of the craft is said to have expressed the opinion that it has all other kinds away up "on the rocks." The return trip was made in an automobile.

SAYS COUNTRY'S NEED IS HEALTHY WOMEN

"When real gentlemen are going into the woods and into the open, don't forget to invite your wives, and your sweethearts, for American ideals splendid, healthy women for a splendid country," said James S. Whipple, chief of the New York Forest, Fish and Game Association, the guiding genius of the Massachusetts Fish and Game Protective Association at its last dinner of the season, held at Hotel Roosevelt.

AGED CHARITY WORKER DEAD IN NORTH END

Mrs. Leodie Varney Arancio, one of the oldest residents of the North End and a prominent social and benevolent worker, is dead at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. E. P. Seighinno, No. 149 Coleridge street, East Boston, aged seventy-three years. Mrs. Arancio is survived by two sons, George Arancio and Frank Arancio, and by three daughters, Mrs. Lydia Grimaldi, Mrs. Mary Ayer and Mrs. E. P. Seighinno.

RICH BRIDE LUCKY AT MONTE CARLO

Mrs. James A. Welch, the bride of a Spokane railroad magnate, who returned on the Canopic from a honeymoon trip through Europe, was luckier at Monte Carlo than her millionaire husband. She quit ahead of the game, while she declared he "went broke" three times.

The Westerner must have been near his base of supplies, for when they arrived on the liner he paid customs dues amounting to hundreds of dollars from a big roll. The pair brought with them a half a dozen immense trunks and boxes.

LOMBARD HEADS ARTILLERY CORPS

Lieutenant-Colonel Walter E. Lombard was given the unanimous vote of the officers of the Coast Artillery Regiment, M. V. M., to fill the colonelcy which has been made vacant by the resignation of Colonel Charles P. Nutter. Major Frederic S. Howes was elected lieutenant-colonel, and Captain Dwight Fullerton was made major.

Morris M. Souther has sold to Ellen F. Phillips a lot of land at the corner of Elm avenue and Souther street, Dorchester, containing about 6,000 square feet and assessed for $600.

In West Roxbury a frame apartment house and 4,871 square feet of land on Chauncy place, near Washington street, have been sold by the Winchendon Savings Bank to John F. Eager. It is all taxed for $5,700, of which $1,500 is on the land.

In Charlestown the frame dwelling and 1,140 square feet of land at No. 8 Freeland street, near Bartlett street, have been sold by Adeline C. Butler to Elizabeth G. Riordan. The estate is all assessed for $4,000, of which amount $1,100 is on the land.

LATIN SCHOOL GIRLS AS CANDY MERCHANTS

The portrait of John Tetlow, head master of the Girls' Latin School, painted by Ernest Ipsen. The well known Dantah artist of this city, will soon be hanging in the school library, as a gift of the Girls' Latin School Association. This afternoon the first class of the Latin School will conduct a sale of choice and other confections, the proceeds from which will be added to the fund for the purchase of the painting. The sale will take place in the school hall, Huntington avenue, from 2 to 5 o'clock.

GIRL WHO CAN'T SWIM A LIFESAVER

OCCIDENTAL, Cal., March 18.—Miss Stella E. Bartholomew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew, is the proud possessor of two handsome life saving medals and a handsomely engraved watch, presented her for the rescue of drowning persons from the waters of Russian River. A peculiar feature of the case is the fact that Miss Bartholomew cannot swim a stroke. She is always provided with a life preserver patented by her father and spends hours each day in the waters of Russian River about her home.

Other operators have been sent from other exchanges.

BRINGS BRIDE ON FREIGHT STEAMER

The steamer Yola, which is at the New Haven docks, carries the captain's young bride, and brings to Boston the tale of an interesting romance. When Captain W. P. Purdon was second officer on a tramp steamer running in and out of South African ports, he met Miss Violet Lee. It was a case of rapid love-making during his brief visits to her, with long, long waits between.

LICENSE BOARD MEN TO FIGHT HOWARD

SALEM, March 18.—Edward B. Trumbull and Morgan J. McSweeney, two of the three license commissioners, have been dropped by Mayor Arthur P. Howard, accused of failure to perform their duties. This step was taken after the Mayor, personally and through agents, had made thorough inspection of conditions in several sections of the city. The ousted commissioners propose to bring court proceedings.

Four Well Known Cleveland Women Testify

They Join the Many Thousands Who Have Been Cured and Benefited By the Use of the Great Body Builder and Renewal of Youth and Extol Its Virtues That Others May Read and Be Helped.

MRS. J. E. ROOT.
Holds World's Fast Walking Record.

"Two years ago, when I did not feel very strong, I bought a bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I was immediately benefited by it. I am 80 years old, and won the championship in the great walking contest for aged people in Cleveland. I beat the world's record for aged people. My wonderful health and ability I attribute to using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a medicine."—Mrs. Jane Edwards Root, 1,005 E. 90th St.

MRS. ROSE DOYLE.
Was an Invalid; Gained Fifty Pounds.

"I was for many years an invalid, very thin in flesh, and I feared I would never be well. I tried everything, and at last bought a bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey; from that time I commenced to gain. I am now perfectly well and enjoy life as I never expected to. There is no medicine as good. I certainly gladly recommend it. After I commenced taking it I gained 50 lbs. in seven weeks."—Mrs. Rose Doyle, 1,005 East 90th St.

MRS. A. L. HENDERSON.
Seldom Took Medicine, Completely Cured.

"I seldom take medicine, but, not feeling very strong, I tried Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and it did me so much good I cannot refrain from telling you.

"There is nothing as good for heart trouble, and I believe it has effected a permanent cure in my case. It is also wonderful for pains and aches and general debility. I am very glad to give my testimony, that it may help others."—Mrs. A. L. Henderson, 4,054 Payne Ave.

MRS. B. M. STRAUSE.
84 Years Old, Enjoys Health and Strength.

"I am 84 years of age, and I want to tell you there is no medicine as good as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for aged people or for any one who is debilitated or run down from any cause. It has certainly been of great benefit to me, and I have known of many marvellous cures from its use in cases of weak throat, lungs, stomach troubles, etc."—Mrs. B. M. Strause, 5,125 Harlem Avenue.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is one of the greatest strength-builders and tonic stimulants known to medicine. By its invigorating effect upon the physical and nervous forces it assists in rebuilding the weak and tired tissues, in a gradual, healthy, natural manner. It is a wonderful remedy in the prevention and cure of consumption, pneumonia, grippe, bronchitis, coughs, colds, asthma, malaria, low fevers and all wasting, weakened and diseased conditions, if taken as directed. It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens and sustains the system, is a promoter of health and longevity, makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong.

If in need of advice, write Medical Department, the Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, N. Y., stating your case fully. Our doctors will send you advice free, together with a valuable illustrated medical booklet, containing rare common sense rules for health which you cannot afford to be without, and some of the many thousands of gratifying letters received from men and women in all walks of life, both old and young, who have been cured and benefited by the use of this great medicine and who continue to enjoy good health. Sold by druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1.00 per large bottle.

SLAYER OF BOY IS FREED ON PROBATION

Gabriel Goberian, the Armenian farm hand who, on February 5, last, struck James O'Brien on the head in his home in Watertown, resulting in the young man's death, and was indicted last week by the Middlesex County Grand Jury on the charge of manslaughter, was to-day released on probation by Judge Stevens.

Goberian, his hand on his heart, made a dramatic plea before the Judge in the Middlesex County Superior Criminal Court in East Cambridge to-day. "Before God I never intended to kill that boy," he cried. "Have mercy on me, Judge."

Judge Stevens called Goberian before him yesterday. The man pleaded guilty to the charge of manslaughter and the Judge sentenced him to one year in the House of Correction. Fifteen or twenty minutes later the Judge had the prisoner recalled. He revoked the sentence and again sent him away. Twice to-day Goberian was brought before the Judge before the court could make up his mind.

Goberian was a laborer on the O'Brien farm in Watertown. James O'Brien, seventeen years of age, his younger brother, and some other boys were all sleeping in one bedroom. The boys, it is alleged, blew pepper in Goberian's eyes after plaguing him for a long time. Blinded, the man leaped from his bed and with a broom handle struck O'Brien down, his death soon following.

WOOER DIED FOR COUNTESS

VENICE, March 18.—The most sensational feature of the trial of Countess Tattenoswka was the reading of letters from a young medical student named Vladimir Stalk. Blinded, believed as an accomplice in the murder of Count Kamarovsky, the Countess's second husband, has sworn Stalk killed himself for love of her. Here is a passage from one of his letters as he was about to commit suicide:

"Dear Marie Nicolaievna: Instead of at 5 o'clock I arrived at the Anatomical Theatre at 9 o'clock. I shall still live forty minutes more. All is ended. My love for you alone lives. I live with the sole hope that you will pass before my bier. I kiss you and I die."

NEW ENGLAND HEADS TO WELCOME BORDEN

The annual ladies' night of the Canadian Club will take place at Hotel Vendome next Thursday evening. The guest of honor of the evening will be R. L. Borden, leader of the Conservative party of Canada, and, next to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the most distinguished man in Canadian public life to-day. The following distinguished guests have accepted invitations to be present and will present greetings on behalf of their respective States: Hon. Eben S. Draper, governor of Massachusetts; Henry H. Quinby, governor of New Hampshire; Frank R. Weeks, governor of Connecticut, and John A. Mead, Lieutenant-Governor of Vermont.

PRESSMEN OBSERVE FIFTEENTH YEAR

The fifteenth anniversary and smoker of the Franklin Association No. 18, of the International Junior Pressmen's Union was held in Elks' Hall, Hayward place. The speaker of the evening was Martin P. Higgins, former president of the International Printing Pressmen's Union. His subject was "Organization," and in a brief and graphic manner he related the history and growing power of trade unionism. Organizer Daniel J. Mylonald, the well-known labor man, also made a short address. Refreshments were served during the evening.

GIRL AIDS FATHER IN PISTOL BATTLE

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 18.—Cheered on by his daughter, who sat by his side, Creedmore Turner, farmer and feud leader, to-day aided by his two sons fought a pistol battle with Luther Ray, Ray and the elder Turner were fatally shot, but continued the fight after receiving mortal wounds. The younger Turners, who killed Ray with rifle bullets, escaped. Their sister, who was with their father in a buggy and helped load his revolver when it had been exhausted, was unhurt.

$22,000 RECOVERED FROM HALL'S ESTATE

SOUTHBRIDGE, March 18.—The trustees of the suspended Southbridge Savings Bank, from which its former treasurer, John A. Hall, stole about $300,000, said to-day that they had recovered $22,000 from Hall's personal property. They said that Hall and Mrs. Hall had turned over everything they possessed to the trustees, and the sum realized was almost double what they had expected to receive from this source.

SWALLOWS TEETH IN STRANGE DREAM

FOXBORO, March 18.—George Horton, a wood sawer, who works in a camp near the East Foxboro Station line, is to-day recovering from the effects of the strangest, ugliest and most realistic dream he ever had. For while he was asleep in an easy chair he swallowed his false teeth. No physician here could fish the teeth from his throat and he was taken to the Morton Hospital in Taunton, where the operation was successfully performed.

SAM LANGFORD KNOCKS OUT JIM FLYNN IN EIGHTH

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

MARMON CAR IN FRONT AT THE LOS ANGELES AUTO RACES

SAM LANGFORD BREAKS FLYNN'S JAW IN EIGHTH ROUND OF SAVAGE FIGHT

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 18.—The term "next to dreamland" is sometimes used without due consideration in describing prizefights, but Jim Flynn certainly took the trip at Vernon arena.

He dropped, face forward, after a whizzing right uppercut from Sam Langford in the eighth round, had broken his jaw, and although he managed to pull himself together and stand swaying on his feet before twelve seconds had elapsed, his senses were still dulled.

In his semi-consciousness Flynn thought he had arisen within the time limit and was qualified to continue boxing but Referee Eyton decided otherwise.

Langford stands upright when delivering his famous blow.

Negro Hits Hard.

He twists his body to the right and has such command of his shoulder punch that he can hook it under a pair of crossed forearms and then reach the target.

He used it in the first round of the Flynn encounter and Flynn's bruised and bleeding face as he went to his corner bore testimony to the accuracy of the negro's hitting.

He still used it in the succeeding rounds and when he held it in reserve for a while it was only because, as he stated before, Flynn barricaded his face effectually and forced his opponent to waltz more closely for openings.

You would not have given much for Flynn's chances after the first round, nor did the prospect look any better in the third round, when he dropped on his stomach from the effect of a heavy uppercut.

Flynn was up within the ten seconds in the third round, however, and from the energetic manner in which he was leading out in the concluding seconds of the round it did not look as though he had been rattled to any extent by the knock-down.

It was in the fourth round that Langford took a side of a wrap. Flynn, who is always the first to begin hostilities, had a trick of covering up and rushing at close quarters. The fireman aimed to plant his hand beneath his opponent's chin, and while in this position he hammered away at the ribs and the sides of the head.

The blows were of the short arm variety however, and I do not know that he struck the colored man one really hurtful smash during the whole fight.

Slim Chance for Flynn.

Although Langford made less use of the upper cut in the fourth, fifth and sixth rounds, he stabbed Flynn repeatedly with a straight left, and he threw in some solid body blows.

Flynn, as usual hooked and boxed in a persistent way. He was so busy that he hardly took time to draw his elbow back before landing a punch, but he had little regard as to where his blows fell. There might be such a thing as Langford being worn down by Flynn, but that is about the only way the fireman could win from the negro. Flynn is always too busy with little punches at close quarters to shine as a knockout specialist.

There was some blood on Langford's lips in the fifth round, and at the end of the sixth the negro's right cheek was bruised. In the seventh Langford was so inactive for a while and Flynn by comparison so extremely corrective that the crowd, which clearly sympathized with the white man, booed Langford.

It was thought that Sam was a victim of the hurricane pace, and that Flynn was the better boxer when he settled down to business. But Langford was simply saving his free. Toward the end of the three minutes he cut loose again with his uppercut and this time he brought both gloves into play.

Flynn Weakens.

The first punch was stinging enough to partly daze Flynn and demoralize his defence. Nothing that the fireman did not throw his forearms across his face Sam shipped one ripping punch after another and the bell sounding at a lucky moment for Flynn the Pueblo man walked to his corner with none too firm a step.

The concluding round was an exciting one. In the beginning Flynn, who as usual had rushed into a clinch, used short-arm blows on the negro's body and face and Langford took this did not fight back.

Sam tried to pin Flynn away the better to employ his uppercut, but Flynn stuck to his like glue, and Langford backed away under Flynn's pressing and the body blows. Flynn began to send in what seemed more promising punches than any he had previously delivered.

The Finishing Blow.

Flynn carried Langford to the ropes and Sam's friends were jubilant. They thought that the negro was surely caving in under the relentless rushing and hurtling. The fireman was not to be denied, and the others were flying into a mass of leather into close quarters again.

As is still so Langford defended the game and sent in the finishing uppercut. It was delivered with the full sweep of Long Sam's arm, and there was nothing to interrupt it. It took Flynn below the chin and the mark, and it dropped him to the floor.

The fight will always be remembered for its speed and quickness. Flynn although he lost, has cemented his reputation as a game ring man, while for that matter there was nothing in Langford's actions to day to suggest that he is not as shortwinded as he was whipped.

LANGFORD'S MANAGER CLAIMS JIM FLYNN FOULED SAM OFTEN

Before the fight started Referee Eyton stated that there was to be no rough work, still he let Flynn repeatedly foul Langford with his butting. Langford paid no attention to this for he was sure of wearing Flynn out by his fast work.

In the third round it looked as if Flynn was going to outfight as Langford put him down for the count and he made no effort to arise until Eyton counted eight. In the final round Langford told Flynn during a clinch that his next punch would do the work.—Statement by Joe Woodman.

DOVE PLAYERS SHOW SPEED IN PRACTICE

By W. H. ROSS.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 18.—The doves are a lame lot of birds to-day, but they are showing plenty of gameness. With muscles tied up and arms and legs stiff and aching, they faced the early all ready for another bout at the training game.

They went mighty fast on the opening of Spring practice and did it so willingly that Manager Fred Lake cut the afternoon session short.

He sent the boys back to the special car half an hour before the time set for calling it a day's work. He figured he had to warn some of his men not to attempt too much at the start. Several of the Augusta fans who were filled with Augusta fans who are watching the work of the Boston team on a regular basis that could not be beaten if the team was a world one.

It is the same crowd that has followed the work of Dove players for the past two seasons in the past and Augusta fans are established at the affection between this team and the ones that Joe Kelley and Frank Bowerman have handled. Ferguson, Graham and Sweeney were the only ones left of the bunch that Kelley had to work with, but that has not slowed him down any. The Flying Irishman is busier than ever and that makes it a little hard on the fans, especially as every one at batting practice makes a circuit of the bases.

Moran and Liese go around it the fast est now but they are others who probably will show as much speed in a day or two. The only fast thing Lake did in the way of practice day was to send all hands on a circuit of the park. He let it be only one the course consisted something in the distance like one and two, who had had the quickness of sprinting in succession.

Every one of the ten pitchers who were on hand got a chance to show. Most all of them showed smoke and several of them showed a lot of speed. Chick Evans, the last man to take a turn, put something on the ball that worked overtime with plenty of steam. Harry Smith spoke very highly of his showing.

"That kid," said Harry, "has got a good deal. He has the make of speed and he has any curve I think."

Lake stepped behind Graham while Evans was sending up the ball and saw it break both ways. "Take it from me, boys, that kid," warned the manager. "I'll tell you when I want you to hit him."

Burke Going Fast.

Billy Burke, the clinton lad, was another of the kids that Fred had to tell that he had better ease up. Burke can't break off straight ones only, but they were plenty fast enough to suit a few days' work. He shapes up like a natural ball player. He has the making of a good batter and after leaving aside anything he can do in the box he can play ball. He is as fast as he can handle himself in the field and he has got the class that attracts the scouting eye.

Bill Feeney is another player from the Bay State who shapes up well. The only question whether he or Gus Getz will be put at third base at the start. Both are working there now side by side and Manager Lake is giving them the same chance. Both boys handle ground balls cleanly, and shoot them across the diamond with what would be hard to find in any team three men with better wings than those two and ranger Fred Beck.

Beck is looking at the first bag and it is the plan to start the season with him there. He ought to be good on the job than he was last year with that consumate actor, Bill Dahlen, over him. Just and how low he could put them, over without getting anything that happened scored to his discredit. It is simply fearful if any youngster ever played a big league team who was hazed harder than this Beck boy was last season. He stood the gaff in a style that testifies to his gameness and showed up this year with the confidence which is a pigskin requisite for major league ball playing.

Call Him "Wolgast."

Meldon Whiting looks a pretty good at the start. He is a chunky, red-headed kid with a snappy overhand delivery that is absolutely devoid of lost motion. It will take a stick becoming a regular amount of a start while Wolfgang is sending up cleaning Good of Rogers leaving the game as a pitcher in the New York State League last season. That is saying a good deal, for there is a little class to that organization for a minor. But Good ought to look like He fooled them all and also is handy with the out. Wolfgang is the name we call Burke but there is as much difference in Burke and Wolfgang as there is between young Ty Cobb and either of the Sullivan twins. Everybody had to laugh when Lake said to the red-haired boy, "Here you Wolgast, pitch you down enough for a preliminary."

Neither Bill Sweeney nor Jerry Shean have knocked the ball around yet with much force. They have passed their arms so far, and the manager is not displeased to see them display this caution.

SOMERVILLE H. LOSES FORG

Fred Forg, the best all-round athlete in the high school in Greater Boston, will no might conclude his connection with school athletics when Somerville High closes up against the Y. M. C. A. basketball team of that city, as in June he will have graduated.

Forg has the distinction of being the only man in the history of Somerville High, who was captain for two years of the football team. He also has the distinction of being captain of his class' football team which won the championship of the State. In his Freshman year he made the team, holding down right end, which position he held for the whole four years of his course. He was known for his great ability in running the ball. In a number of games of the trick plays that Somerville had last year he was used and was always a very important cog.

Last year Forg was the only member of the team that made the all-interscholastic team that was picked by the various Boston papers.

He will play right-back on the team to-night and will have matched against him a former Somerville High star, Matt Duggan, who is at present a student at Boston College. Young and Stone of the Y. M. C. A. team were former stars on the basket-ball team at Somerville High two years ago.

$5,000 OFFER FOR KEELER

NEW YORK, March 18.—Willie Keeler may yet appear in the Eastern League. President McGillicuddy of the Columbus club, the sentiment that Keeler is the man who ties them "where they ain't" and a Cincinnati runner to race clean around the bases, offered $5,000 for the season. If that is not enough the Toronto magnate will raise the ante.

TRIS SPEAKER SHOWS UP AT RED SOX CAMP IN FINE CONDITION

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 18.—Tris Speaker, the great Red Sox centre fielder, arrived at training camp early this morning from Hubbard City, Texas, his home. Tris was the last of the Speed Boys to report and Manager Donovan's squad is now complete. He looks in great shape and said if all goes well he will be a few days to get in perfect condition.

If the Red Sox continue their slaughter of the exhibition games and the war correspondents who accompanied the Portsmouth team here will be driven to suicide. Walter Stahl, Speaker nor Carrigan, three of the clouts, 300 hitters, have as yet appeared in the games of all, and what this trio die to the Red pitchers when they get good is fearful to contemplate.

It was McConnell's first appearance this year against the Reds. He was in no condition to play, but Manager Donovan had loaned Harry Niles and Charlie Pownall. McConnell is very sore, he cannot raise his arm above his waist, and had no business in the game yesterday at all, but it couldn't be held back. He pitched all right, but had no batting eye, which is not to be wondered at considering the fact that he had only been out three days.

"I am stronger than I have been for three years," declared the little second baseman to-day, "but I am so sore it pains me to walk, so unless the manager insists on it, I will not play for a day or two. French will be back to be in better condition than I am, so I guess I will beg off."

Jake Stahl in the Game.

Big Jake Stahl made his debut after battle and wants to get in the series. "I was very lame and sore yesterday," he said, "but I took a Swedish massage and feel as if I could run a mile this morning. I want to get in some batting practice and I think I can hit these pitchers Griffith is serving up to us."

Duffy Lewis again distinguished himself and he has the entire Red Sox and Cincinnati squads talking about him. In the second game with Cincinnati he did not knock the ball over the fence, in fact he didn't get a hit, but he made two terrific line drives, which, unfortunately, went right into Egan's hands, that player not having to move an inch. Had the drives been five feet to either side of Egan they would have torn boards off the right field fence.

But the little Californian shone in the field like a golden light. He pulled a hard drive right off the centre field. He threw out a runner at the plate who had tried to score from second on a single, and on another play he whipped the ball to Lord to catch Lobert, after hauling down a fly in deep centre. The throw was a beauty, but Lord, who has not yet quite got his batting eye, juggled the ball and the runner was safe. In time it is thought the Cincinnati bunch will realize that Mr. Lewis has a wing that is to be trifled with.

Meyers Will Improve.

Hap Meyers did not shine so brilliantly on first as he did in the opening game, as he had a throw get by him that allowed a runner to score in the fourth inning, but he fielding was all right and his throwing was safe. In time it is thought the Cincinnati bunch will realize that Mr. Lewis has a wing that is to be trifled with.

TAILOR-MADE STYLE

One of the reasons we are doing the biggest business in our history is because our clothes carry a certain style to them—a style not possessed by ready-made clothes, regardless of the price.

The cloth in a ready-made suit can be as good as the cloth in one of our suits—in fact, it may be better quality in a very high-priced ready-made suit as compared with one of our $15 suits. But the style—the adjustment of what is correct to your special personality—will not be there.

As our prices run $15 to $25 per suit (or overcoat), and as you would have to pay that for any ready-made suit that you would care to wear, we can see no earthly reason why you ought not to let us build you a suit. It won't cost anything to drop into our shop—day or evening—and look at the goods and some of our finished work that is waiting for delivery to our customers.

SOPHS TACKLE 1910 AGAIN

Despite the result of the Boston College interclass meet when the freshmen beat the sophomores by two points the sophomores think they have the best team. As a result they have challenged the freshmen for a dual meet that will take place in the college gym next Tuesday afternoon.

The freshmen have already taken the sophomores to camp in three branches of athletics namely football basketball and track but the sophs claim that they can beat the freshies on the track, as there were three members of the soph track team out of college on the day of the interclass meet.

Among the sophs who did not participate in the last meet are Harrington who came down from Holy Cross last year and who is looked upon to take the shot put, Hall Jones and dash Steve Mahoney, who can do the mile in five minutes with ease and Pat Dee a former member of Cambridge Latin. Dee beats others who will represent the colors are Metcalf, Mc Hugh Mealey, Mahoney, Hurley, Dooley, Regan, Jim Mooney, Lineman, Garrity and Gibbons.

The freshmen are counting on the following men to get the greatest number of points: Francis Shea, George Fitzgerald, Sweeney, Gilmore, Flaherty, Archer, Latin city, McKenna, formerly of English High, McMahon who ran last year on the Boston English relay team, Lee Ryan, and Vin Hickey.

Charity Prospers in Lent; Society Devotions; Copley Hall Bazaar Flourishes

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

THE generous hand of society is extended again to-day and any number of deserving charities are to profit thereby. First in importance comes the bazaar at Copley Hall in aid of the Insane Hospital, a most deserving charity in which the whole of the philanthropic smart set is interested. The fair opened this morning and continues until to-morrow noon.

Among the many attractions are the Italian marionettes, which were so popular at the 1915 Exposition. They give performances both mornings from 11 until 1, and this afternoon from 3 to 5. Mrs. Prescott Bigelow has charge of the Easter eggs and grabs. Mrs. S. Parker Bremer has charge of the afternoon tea to-day and is assisted by an interesting bevy of this year's buds.

At the flower table are Mrs. Henry C. Everett, Mrs. William Tufts, Mrs. George Wheelwright and Mrs. William H. Hill. At the garden table, Mrs. F. H. Stone, Mrs. Robert F. Herrick and Miss Katharine F. Sherwood.

At the kimono, matinee and jacket table are Mrs. Charles T. Lovering, Mrs. Frank Appleton, Jr., and Miss Helen Jaques.

At the cake and candy, Mrs. Robert W. Lovett, Mrs. Isaac R. Thomas, Mrs. Thomas Russell, Mrs. William Lindsey and Mrs. James L. Putnam.

The miscellaneous table is in charge of Mrs. Thomas Morgan Rotch, Mrs. Nathan Matthews, Mrs. George A. Draper, Mrs. James Arnold Lowell, Mrs. William Aspinwall, Mrs. James Means, Mrs. Frank F. Balderston, Mrs. Joseph S. Fay and Miss. Channing Prothingham.

At the baby table are Mrs. Theodore G. Brenner, Mrs. Edward Clark, Mrs. Herbert F. Otis, Mrs. Wolcott H. Johnson and Miss Louise Coburn. At the household table, Mrs. Oscar Iasigi, Mrs. Francis S. Parker, Mrs. Walker C. Bayliss and Mrs. John N. Pearce Hallowell. Mrs. Samuel Johnson, Mrs. R. M. H. Harper, Mrs. John Perkins, Mrs. William Stearns and Miss Florence Cobb have the hat table.

At the bundle table are Mrs. Sullivan A. Sargent, Mrs. Charles Harrington and Mrs. Charles W. Bisdgett.

Over the Easter eggs and grab table preside Mrs. Prescott Bigelow, Mrs. Prescott Bigelow, Jr., and Mrs. William B. Wheelwright. Miss M. H. Stoddard, Mrs. S. Parker Bremer, Mrs. W. D. Hamilton and Miss Eloise Derby are at the tea table. At the table of tables are Mrs. Robert S. Bradlee, Mrs. J. Lewis Bremer, Mrs. J. Dudley Clark, Mrs. Charles E. Mason and Mrs. E. V. R. Thayer, Jr.

Another event of fashionable interest and likewise for the cause of sweet charity, is the shaking carnival being held at the new arena in aid of the Sharon Sanitarium. The patroness list is a long one, and reads like the regular social register.

A private, informal exhibition of the works of W. J. Partridge is being held this afternoon at the Partridge studios on Westland avenue.

The final social function of the present season for next Winter's debutantes-elect, is enjoyed by a select few this evening in the small ball room at the Somerset. The affair is in charge of the mothers of a number of the sub-buds, Mrs. John Lowell, Mrs. C. Minot Weld, Mrs. Henry S. Hunnewell, and Mrs. Philip Saltonstall.

The dance is a "small and early" and is attended for the most part by the future buds, their parents and younger relatives and friends and the Harvard boys of the two middle classes, who are among the few eligibles to these affairs throughout the Winter.

A large number of Boston and Brookline friends of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Dutton attend the reception this evening, which they are giving at their home on Glen road in Malden, in recognition of the golden anniversary of their wedding.

Miss Lillian Clapp of Beacon street is the guest of honor at the reception which Mrs. George Allen Clapp of Newton is giving this afternoon at her residence on Walnut street. The occasion of the function is the recently announced engagement of Mrs. Clapp's son, George Allen Clapp to the guest of honor, Miss Lillian Clapp.

President and Mrs. Taft, Ambassador and Mrs. James Bryce, Count and Countess Moltke and the members of the Russian and German Embassies at Washington are among the patronesses for the grand fete to-day at the Hotel Astor in New York for the benefit of the Association for the Blind. The ball opens with a butterfly dance.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen H. Bennett are leaving town to-day to accompany their eldest daughter to New York as she is to sail the following day for Europe in company with her grandmother.

Miss Amy P. Rowland, who has recently returned from a long visit in Porto Rico, is leaving Boston in the course of a few days for a trip to Washington, Philadelphia and New York.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor Boumphrey (Olivia Dutchison), who were married at the home of the bride's parents this week, are to make their home in Ireland and are to occupy picturesque Rock Lodge, the estate of the bridegroom in his native land. They are to sail on the Lusitania on Wednesday, March 30.

The important social event at Boston University is the annual khatsch colleglum this evening at the college building on Boylston street by hundreds of the friends of college students and officials. About twenty-five hundred invitations have been issued and many prominent members of society from Boston, Brookline, Cambridge and the Newtons will attend.

The affair is in charge of the Gamma Delta Society and Miss Laura G. Smith of Worcester as president of the society is the chief hostess. She is assisted by twelve hostesses from the Senior class and eight hostesses from each of the three lower classes.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Curtis of Beacon street have issued invitations for the dance which they are to give on the last evening of the month for their young sons, Louis Curtis, Jr., and Lawrence Curtis. Their sons are both students at Groton and are at home for the Easter holiday season.

Before the dance there will be a number of dinners given by parents whose sons and daughters will attend the dance, among them being a dinner of twenty covers which Dr. and Mrs. James Dwight will give at their Beacon street home for Miss Ruth Dwight and Philip Dwight, and a dinner which Mrs. Neal Rantoul will give for their daughter, Miss Josephine Rantoul, at their home on Fairfield street.

Great Women of History

ABIGAL ADAMS

By REV. THOMAS B. GREGORY

THE great women of history were not all born in the Old World. Democratic America has had, and still has the great women—women who, from without viewpoint they are considered, are the peers of the most illustrious of all European Continent.

Take, for example, Abigail Adams, the wife of one President and the mother of another, the model housekeeper, devoted wife and mother, charming conversationist, delightful letter writer, astute politician and uncompromising lover of her country.

If Mrs. Adams had been a French woman, or even an Englishwoman, her talents, aided by her environment, would have made her as noted as Mme. de Staël or Lady Wortley-Montagu. Even as it was, her light could not be put "under a bushel," and a careful reading of her biography is quite sufficient to show her extraordinary qualities of head and heart.

Born in Weymouth

Born in Weymouth, Mass., November 11, 1744, the daughter of a clergyman, Abigail Smith grew up in womanhood without ever having been to school. This does not mean that she grew up in ignorance. It was not unusual in those days, even in Massachusetts, for a girl to receive no regular schooling.

Very careful of the education of their boys, the Puritans seemed to think that the girls ammonied to little, and might just as well be left to pick up an education as best they could.

Abigail Smith succeeded in picking up a very fine education. Her father had many good books in his library, which she carefully read and studied. Harvard College, too, was close by, where were all the books she might need; and there, also, were refined and educated people, many of whom were regularly her father's guests, and to whom she listened with profit.

At twenty Miss Smith became the wife of John Adams, then a struggling young lawyer, whose prospects were exceedingly slim. But Adams had within himself the making of a very useful man, and when the "times that tried men's souls" came, the young lawyer was in demand.

Shaped Affairs of State

In 1774 Adams, in obedience to the wishes of his people, went down to be a member of the General Congress, at Philadelphia.

His wife did not go with him, but, by her letters to him, she held her husband firmly to his work. When things reached the point where it looked like a fight, she wrote her husband, "Did ever any State regain its liberty without bloodshed. Fighting is horrible, but rather than submit to slavery let us fight."

When the time for the Declaration of Independence came, the brave woman was "determined for liberty." "Let the Declaration be set forth," she wrote her husband. "Let us inform the world that we are resolved to be our own masters."

In 1778 Adams went, as joint commissioner with Franklin, to the Court of France, and it is on record that throughout his period of office as Commissioner he was greatly aided by the wise suggestions of his wife.

And later, when John Adams became President of the United States, it was his wife that he regularly appealed to in every critical time.

She "shaped" more measures than did all the members of the Cabinet put together, and made herself felt along many lines of the public life.

FOR SKIN TROUBLES OF CHILDREN

Cadum, the New Remedy.

It must be borne in mind that Cadum, the new compound for skin diseases, contains no dangerous ingredient of any kind. It is perfectly safe to apply to the tender skin of infants suffering from tetter, rashes, scaly and crusted humors, eczema, chafings and similar troubles that afflict the little ones. Gratifying relief is felt as soon as Cadum is applied. The itching is stopped at once, and so soothing and healing is the effect of this new compound that infants resume natural sleep immediately. Cadum is for any skin trouble in adults as well as children, being particularly efficacious in eczema, salt rheum, pimples, blackheads, acne, scabies, ringworm, prickly heat, itching piles, etc. 10c and 25c. at all druggists.

Here's a New Boon for Children; All Should Have a Bank Account

THAT the little ones to save. A child's bank account is a shield against crime and a lever to higher things.

This is the view of Professor William McKeever of the Kansas State Agricultural College, who has been making a study of child problems. In a short pamphlet just issued he gives the result of careful investigation of the effect of saving on the child's mind; how it affects the tendency towards crime or morality.

The pamphlet, one of the most interesting and yet simple psychological studies issued in popular form in some time, has been sent to thousands of homes. After interviewing hundreds of parents throughout his State and in the East, the writer draws these conclusions.

That the saving habit started in youth prevents crime.

That it is difficult to start the habit later in life.

That the lack of the "money sense" leads to money crimes, such as forgery, theft, robbery, embezzlement.

That the speculation habit is the result of years of non-saving.

Criminal a Spendthrift.

"The criminal," he says, "is nearly always a spendthrift, and while the converse statement is not necessarily true, there is something in the very nature of the reckless money habit that tends to drag one down toward wrong doing. The published records of courts and prisons show that the majority of the men and boys found guilty of crimes and misdemeanors have gone astray as the result of an effort to obtain money or its direct equivalent by some unlawful means.

"Theft, forgery, robbery and the like are most familiar terms in the catalogue of crime. The present-day records of the juvenile court indicate that the boys tried there most commonly lack what might be called "money sense." They show little evidence of having been taught how to earn money honestly, and less evidence of having ever known from experience anything about saving.

"The whole fabric of our moral life is thoroughly interwoven with our ideas about money and its purposes and uses; and yet we are doing little or nothing of a systematic character, either in school or out, to instruct growing children in reference to this very important matter.

Nursing the Sweet Tooth.

"It is a common thing in cities and villages to see boys ranging in age from five to thirteen making a beeline for the confectionery store with a nickle or dime just begged from a parent. The carelessness is allowed to go on till about the adolescent period is reached when suddenly the parent becomes imbued with the idea that it is time to have the lad earn some money of his own. In the typical case an effort is made to force the latter to such a conclusion, but the easy-going, free-spending habit is now very persistent, and in a short time the father may be seen responding to the boy's financial needs in the same old way.

"The habit of getting something for nothing, so thoroughly formed in early life," says the head of a great mercantile establishment, "is responsible for the speculative tendency so common among young men to-day. They want to obtain a high living with the least possible effort. This city is swarming with finely dressed young men who do not own the clothes they are wearing. I know many of them personally. In employing help I always give the preference to those who have already saved something, for they are more willing to earn what they receive."

"Another false position is that often taken by the teacher who tries to inculcate the sentiment that money-making is not an important affair of what she conceives to be the better life. Accordingly she neglects at opportune times the discussion of practical business affairs before the school. The boy may go through the school ranking high in his text-book work and yet have little or no instruction in these practical matters of equal importance. It is certainly somewhat a hodgepodge to impart this knowledge, and unless it is done this same smart boy may be woefully lacking in what we may call money sense. It seems reasonable that teachers be held responsible for a part of this important work."

Wages for Housework.

Professor McKeever urges parents to allow the children a small wage for doing little things about the house, with the understanding that they save what they earn. He quotes some parents as to the results of their experiments along this line.

"I never gave my boys a cent," said a father who had been successful in this line. "From childhood they have been taught to earn their pennies by doing something useful around the house. They saved their pennies."

Many other methods of saving are suggested. Raising chickens on a small scale for the boy in the country, building and loan association shares, to be paid for in small installments in the city—these are some of the ways offered.

"But in some way," says the professor, "open a savings account for the child. Let her collect at school, as has been done successfully by the stamp saving system in boys, or in a toy bank where the first accumulations are made. Get the child started somehow."

"But," he urges in conclusion, "while giving this instruction guard against teaching miserliness. The ultimate aim of this instruction is not to qualify the coming man to accumulate wealth, but to develop the youth's self-reliance and his personality."

'I HAD GREAT TIME ABROAD,' SAYS PATTEN

NEW YORK, March 18.—James A. Patten, the "Wheat King," made his first appearance in the financial section today since his return from England, when he was almost mobbed when he operated on the Manchester Exchange by a mob of several thousand excited brokers who cornered him "The Bloomin' Yankee," and received a boisterous reception. Patten was a passenger on the Mauretania last night. Accompanied by a friend he left the Waldorf-Astoria, where he had gone to, and entering a taxi went directly to the offices of his brokers, Carpenter, Bissett & Co., at No. 27 William street.

Patten's entrance to his brokers' office brought forth a loud cheer from two score or more plungers who were in the office at the time.

Gets Warm Welcome Home.

"Glad to see you back, old man," "You're looking fine; what do you think of wheat" and "Hope you had a jolly time," were a few of the many greetings extended to him as he had entered the office. After thanking his friends Patten made a brief speech and then went into the private office of his brokers, where he remained in consultation for about a half hour. After leaving the office he went to the ticker. He seemed exceedingly pleased with the wheat quotations which were strong.

"I had a great time in England," Patten told several of his friends in the office, "but I'm glad to get back."

He had very little to say on the present condition of wheat and would neither deny nor affirm a report which stated that he was interested again in the bull side of wheat.

"Mob" Report Exaggerated.

Questioned about the "pandemonium" greeting he received by the Manchester brokers when he appeared on the floor of the Manchester Exchange several days after his arrival in London, he said: "Oh, that report of me being mobbed was greatly exaggerated. It had to travel three thousand miles you know, and many things can take place in that length of time."

Mr. Patten said that he would remain in New York indefinitely. His daughter will come on here from Bryn Mawr College and spend a few days right away.

REPORT BREAKS AT DOWNTOWN STORES

Two robberies were reported to the City Hall police station today. During the night the show case in the doorway of David J. Israelson, opticlan, No. 13 Winter street, was broken and $175 worth of glasses and frames stolen. The store of William McAninch, No. 115 Congress street, was entered and 2,000 stamped envelopes taken.

MRS. KEPPEL, WHO SPRINGS NEW JOKE ON EDWARD VII.

STOCKING JOKE ON THE KING

LONDON, March 18.—A good story about Mrs. George Keppel comes from Biarritz. After luncheon at the Hotel du Palais, the King was discussing before a select gathering of intimates on the vagaries of fashion.

"There is one fashion I certainly dislike," said the King, "I don't like to see watches on women's wrists."

"Really, sir" replied Mrs. Keppel, innocently, "perhaps you prefer to see clocks on their stockings."

No one but Mrs. Keppel would have dared to make so audacious a remark, but she never ally anything. She always is smiling over with life and spirits, and is a perfect mine of nerves thing for the royal physician can prescribe. She is installed at Sir Ernest Cassel's fine villa.

The charm of Mrs. Keppel lies in her adaptability to her surroundings. She can discuss music, art and literature. Women are fashanated by her as much as men. One secret of her popularity is the fact that she has never lost sight of the unlucky word about members of her own sex.

Social Notes

Preparations are being made for the annual show of the Chelsea Canoe Club of Boat Harbor, to be held in Highland Hall, Monday and Tuesday evenings, April 4 and 5.

The Ladies' Aid Association of the Sailors' Home in Chelsea, gave an entertainment at the home last evening for the veterans. Among those who assisted were Miss Amy Williamson, Miss Harriet Wakin-son, John Thompson, Miss Bertha Plimpton, Miss Marjorie Spaulding, Mr. Haskell and Jack Stone.

At the Hotel Bellevue last evening thirty-three of the superintendents and foremen of the Boston Elevated Railway at their first dinner together. General Manager Rolfe Cheyne was the toastmaster.

The Ariel Operatic Dramatic Club met last night at the Church of the Messiah, on the Home of the Angel Guardian, in Revere street. The cast included Daniel F. Conners, Timothy Donovan, J. Neil Gannon, Frank J. Shea, William J. McCarthy, Joseph W. Doherty, Henry B. Fahey, Arthur J. Molloy, John S. Keohane, Mary P. Connolly, Maud Shea, Elizabeth and Rose M. Keohane. The show was under the direction of the Misses Aid Shea.

Miss Alice and Miss Marion Fitzgerald, assisted by the Rev. Father O'Connell and Joseph Sullivan, had charge of the entertainment of the choir of the Immaculate Conception Church.

Governor Draper was the chief guest at a banquet at the Boston Chamber of Commerce, given in appreciation of the hospitality of the city of Portland, Me., on behalf of the Portland Board of Trade. Other guests were Colonel Charles Dana Batchelder, late body of the agency; Charles Dana Gibson, president of the State Street Trust Co.; A. R. Colonel Robert H. Patterson, U. S. A., in charge of the coast defenses of this district; Major Guy Morrison, U. S. marshall; and Professor Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard University.

E. A. Walker will lecture at "Freedom and Some of the Methods of Social Betterment and Some of the Problems," at the meeting of the Accounting Commercial Chapter of the Y. M. C. A. this evening. Discussion of New England, at the American House this evening.

At Jordan Hall, last evening, at the 3rd concert of the Cherry fourth season, Emilio de Gogorza, baritone, was the soloist, Gaetano Braga's "Song of Paradise Lost," Leoncavallo's "Mattinata" and Tosti's "Serenade." The soloists were Miss Violet Brown, soprano, and Longwell, violinist. Townsend Ellis was accompanist and Miss Agnes Howe was associated by pierre Henrotte as concert master.

MAN SINGES HAIR ON THE THIRD RAIL

NEW YORK, March 18.—Thomas Reddy of No. 638 Claremont avenue, while waiting to catch a train on the platform of the Brooklyn bridge subway station slipped and fell to the track, across which he lay unconscious with his head resting on the third rail. To lift him off ran the risk of a bad burn, but the power was cut off and the only damage the electricity did was to singe his hair.

3-CENT CHECK PAID TO TOWN OF LENOX!

LENOX, March 18.—Just think of how much money this town gets from the corporations. It's wonderful! Why, yesterday, the town actually received a check for three cents from the State Treasurer of Massachusetts as its share of the corporation tax paid into the State Treasury in 1909. And remember, please, this town is the home of the biggest Summer colony of New York millionaires in New England with the exception of Newport.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

Banking interests appear willing to allow prices to seek their own level, extending support only when occasional selling becomes too pronounced, and this is another reason why no immediate recovery is to be looked for.

It cannot be said that this market is otherwise than a natural one. In other words it is following natural lines and is not abnormal in any way. The main fault with such a market is this lack of confidence of stop-loss orders. These serve to show that those who placed them are not afraid of the future and distrust every thing and everybody else.

The public has been buying of late on the theory that some stocks are cheap, and it has been one of the unwritten laws of economics, too, on the strength of the reported buying and selling by the Morgan-Rockefeller interests. In addition to the selling on the part of the steel crowd evidences are not wanting that the Standard Oil, or Rockefeller, people have been getting out of their stocks also.

The Morgan people have taken issue squarely with New President McRoberts and the Pennsylvania City Bank and let their followers know that they are the apostles of optimism, and they fought hard to prove it. If the Standard Oil operations still needed a market on which to liquidate they certainly would not have commissioned their forces officially to the public.

An American house has sold to foreign-ers since January $50,000,000 of subscriptions. This experience is only one of many. Firms with European connections are giving the report that there is doubled demand for coupon securities from Europeans. None of these bond sellers attempts to make over a 5 per cent estimate of the total amount placed abroad in the last eleven weeks, but it is evident that international bankers as the Speyers look upon the litigation in Washington as of secondary consequence compared with the state of our foreign trade.

For from repealing the railway bill as a deterrent, investors here as well as abroad deem the measure wise in every way. It is the investor's pure food law. He esteems it a safeguard. It insures his investment. Bond houses have need it as a recommendation for American issues. As the securities bought abroad are chiefly railway issues, they may be partly credited for the boom in them.

It is understood that the offering of 80,000 shares of South Quincy Copper Company stock at $10 each, par value $25, will be largely oversubscribed. The incorporation is for 200,000 shares, of this 100,000 shares is ownership stock and the remainder treasury stock.

A report on Rawhide Coalition by President F. W. King will soon be mailed to stockholders, showing an estimated ore tonnage blocked out of $1,000,000.

Mr. Isaac Van Horn, who for sixteen years was engaged in the banking and brokerage business, retiring about two and a half years ago to give his attention to affairs connected with the Laramie, Hahns Peak & Pacific Railway Company, will shortly enter actively again in the business with offices in Boston, New York and Los Angeles, under the firm name of Van Horn, Davis & Co. Associated with him actively in the business, which is incorporated under New York laws, with a capital of $1,000,000, are Charles H. Davis of Boston and Meredith, N. H., and Wallace Hackett of Portsmouth, N. H.

Pennsylvania has become a strong and active feature, a fact which encourages bull speculators, who know that this issue has qualities for leadership hardly equaled by any other stock on the list.

The Southern Railway's improving business has forced it into the market for a large amount of new equipment. President Finley announces pending orders for locomotives, cars and rails that will call for the payment of upwards of $10,000,000, which makes the Southern one of the largest buyers of new rolling stock since 1906.

Promoters declare that the encouraging feature of the copper situation is the increased consumption noticeable in all branches of business that require copper. A representative of one company has sounded several of the large consuming concerns and reports that domestic consumption of copper is now running close to 750,000,000 pounds a year.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Stocks were stronger in the early trading in Wall Street to-day going of an average of nearly a point being made by the most active issues. Reading, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Steel were the favorites, with Reading fairly active.

C. & O. exhibited strength because of a belief that shareholders would receive valuable rights in connection with the company's financing, which includes acquisition of Hocking Valley.

Among the specialties to show strength were Interborough-Metropolitan shares.

American stocks were higher in London.

A better tone prevailed in mining stocks on the curb.

Intercontinental Rubber was fractionally higher.

LOCAL STOCK LIST STRONG

STATE STREET, March 18.—Following the example of London, which was much in advance of Boston for Americans, the tone of the market at the opening was strong and in most good advances were recorded. Both industrials and railroads showed substantial gains over last night's closing prices and buying was by brokers representing strong interests.

The tone of news, especially that in regard to the general strengthening of differences between railroad employes and corporations, had a bullish influence upon values.

In the local market the coppers were called, but reflected the strength of the New York market, and under the leadership of Amalgamated some good buying was done, though the volume of trading was small.

STOLE FALSE TEETH, GETS THIRTY DAYS

For receiving stolen goods, including a set of false teeth, Michael Sullivan of No. 72 Gold street, South Boston, was today sentenced by Judge Fallon to thirty days in the House of Correction. His wife Mary, who was arraigned on the same charge, was allowed to go because of her family. Detectives testified Sullivan sold the false teeth to a dentist for twenty-five cents.

New Life for the Organs of Government

A General Strike of Wage-Workers Is NOT What This Country Needs

The request that came from the strike headquarters in Philadelphia the other day, inviting wage-workers throughout the country to put pressure upon the bankers and the business world by withdrawing their savings from the banks, has now no prospect of immediate consequence.

Nevertheless, the proposition introduced a new engine of destruction into the armaments of industrial warfare. And it would be well to take some stock of the possibilities of such a weapon.

The deposits in the savings banks of the country amount to about three and a half billion dollars. A large majority of the depositors are wage-workers.

It may be true, though, that the bulk of these deposits is not made up of the earnings of labor. The Massachusetts Bureau of Labor Statistics says so.

Yet the savings banks by no means embody the whole capital power of labor, as there are many other ways of investing small savings. And it is on the whole safe to say that the workingmen of America represent a capital of something like the huge sum named.

A general strike of wage-workers in their character of small capitalists looks tempting, because it could be conducted at a very slight sacrifice in the matter of interest.

And the personal risk would seem to be incomparably less than the risk that men take when they relinquish their employment and lay down their tools.

NEVERTHELESS, THE SOCIAL RISK WOULD BE ENORMOUS, FOR THE CREDIT OF THE PEOPLE IS THE FOUNDATION OF THE TEMPLE OF COMMERCE.

Small savings and credits constitute a much larger proportion of the whole wealth of the country than the figures of statisticians are able to show. For the truth is that the fortunes of multi-millionaires are in large degree merely THE CAPITALIZATION OF PROSPECTS FOR MAKING MONEY. They are subject to sudden and extreme shrinkage with any general depression in the prospects of business.

CAPITAL IS NOT A FIXED QUANTITY. IT MAY BE CUT IN HALVES—OR QUARTERED—IN A NIGHT.

Capital is that part of the wealth of a country that is alive and ready for business. A sudden moral calamity that destroys credit will turn rivers of live wealth into a dead sea of inert and fruitless matter.

THE CAPITAL THAT IS IN THE HANDS OF THE WORKERS IS THE BASIS OF ALL WORKING CAPITAL.

And the confident enterprise of mechanics and craftsmen at their daily task is the very soul of public credit. If they should withdraw their confidence from the industrial order they would stiffen the whole scheme of things with rigor mortis.

Society lives because individual men believe in it and invest their hopes in the common life.

The remedy for wealth congestions and the injustices of commerce are not to be sought in attacks upon the life of the commonwealth.

On the contrary, the way to cure the diseases of society is to put more vigor into its vitals.

A general strike of wage-workers—as employes or as small capitalists—is an attack upon the heart and lungs of the state.

THE KIND OF GENERAL STRIKE THAT THIS COUNTRY NEEDS IS A POLITICAL STRIKE—A VAST CONCERTED EFFORT OF THE PEOPLE TO INJECT ENERGY AND ENTERPRISE INTO THE ORGANS OF GOVERNMENT AND LAW.

Business Exists to Make It Easier to Live

But It Yet Remains to Convince the Food Trust of This Fact

A magazine writer, discoursing on what he calls the decline of the influence of the peers, says that great journalism of the kind that flourished in the Civil War period has become impossible in our time—for the lack of a profound and passionate moral issue.

This writer has understated the opportunities of modern newspapers and missed the significance of the modern struggle to find and establish the moral basis of business.

Neither the slavery issue nor any question of political sovereignty has gone any deeper into the heart of life than the controversy that is now waging to settle the right of the public to be served by all private enterprises.

This controversy brings an array of old prejudices and prescriptive powers into sharp collision with a newly aroused moral impulse that is battling to get itself expressed in law.

Take, for example, the discovery that a great food trust has thousands of cold storage plants stocked with meat, fish, poultry and vegetables in prodigious quantities. It is found that these provisions have been accumulated at comparatively low prices and are held to wring the highest possible profits out of the necessities of the people.

This proceeding is justified by certain old and outworn business prejudices. There are many people who profess to see nothing wrong in it. They say that business is business—and that business consists in buying as cheap as possible and selling as dear.

The mass of the people, on the contrary, are indignant. They have a sense of wrong and outrage.

There is at present no convenient way of attacking the wrong through the laws against corporate conspiracy. For the present that should suffice, and the conspirators should be brought to book.

But it is easy to see that a great food monopoly might have grown up under the management of a single and simple corporation that was not obnoxious to the anti-trust laws. Or if that was impossible in the past, it is at least possible in the future.

The point is that, quite apart from all the strictures of anti-trust laws, the moral sense of the country is in revolt against all kinds of extortionate business.

IT HAS CEASED TO BE RIGHT TO MAKE ALL THE MONEY ONE CAN—WITHOUT REGARD TO THE WELFARE OF THE PUBLIC.

Thus the honesty and decency of the country is now confronted with an issue fit to arouse its latent moral energies.

And sound journalism will bear its part in the legal establishment of the principle that BUSINESS EXISTS NOT TO MAKE IT HARDER TO LIVE, BUT EASIER—NOT TO DESTROY MEN'S LIVES, BUT TO SAVE THEM.

HE PASSES UP A GOOD THING

What Move Shall We Make in the Interests of True Temperance?—No. 1.

The Need of New Methods of Regulation of the Liquor Traffic.

By REV. ROLAND D. SAWYER,

Pastor First Congregational Church, Ware.

Here in Massachusetts we have a local-option-high-license law, which has received a great deal of praise, and which has often been copied by other States. It was adopted 25 years ago, and was indeed a great advance over the old constabulary law, or a so-called prohibition, which usually means unregulated sale.

But this law is not a finality. The evils of drunkenness, brutality and abuse which follow excessive drinking still continue with us, especially in our industrial cities.

Many have contended that the yearly appeal to the voters would soon build up a public sentiment for the abolition of the saloon, and would commit the cities and towns one by one to a definite, fixed no-license policy.

Thus would the saloon and liquor be wiped out. This theory can no longer be intelligently held.

After 25 years' trial, in which no-license forces have each year spent thousands of dollars and great effort, it is only the smaller towns that have become saloonless.

I know that the no-license people will at once bring up a few cities that are exceptions, that have become saloonless, but in each case this can be traced to local causes. Cambridge, Malden and Somerville are exceptions often noted as now no-license every year. But these cities are only suburbs of Boston, a vote in them for no-license means merely, to keep the saloon down town rather than up in the residential district.

Brockton is the only city of size that no-license has won, and there are strong local reasons for its success there. Brockton has been a city of exceptionally rapid growth; it has no poor quarter; it is really a great big village. Its foreign population is very largely Swedish, over 10,000, I think.

These Swedes are an industrious, thrifty lot of people. In habits they are very clannish. Their favorite method of drinking is for a few neighbors or friends to buy a keg of beer for a Sunday or holiday. They care little for the saloon. Just so long as they can get their beer in this way they will be content to vote it out. These exceptions, then, are about all that the no-license people can show as a result of 35 years' thorough trial.

Most of the cities, the larger towns, the industrial towns, even though small, are in some cases always license, but the majority see-saw back and forth. They try a year or two of "license," then a year or two or "no-license." Whichever they try, they soon become disgusted and vote back the other way. Now, if this can mean anything for us, it means that both license and no-license are unsatisfactory, as a means of regulating the sale of liquor in this State. The people change from one to the other because they have no third alternative. These spasmodic changes can avail nothing.

No one can say that a spasmodic year of no-license every little while amounts to anything as a step in the advance in the better control by society of the saloon as a social institution, and the elimination of the evils of excessive drinking from our life.

Now, up to the time I was twenty-one years of age I worked in the shoe shop. I lived the life and habits of the workingman. I came into the ministry through unconventional ways.

For twelve years I have been a pastor in and about such industrial cities as Brockton, Haverhill, Lawrence, Rockland, Whitman, and in close touch with other places. I have mingled freely with my parishioners. I have met the men nights in their homes, been a delegate to their labor unions, attended their political conventions.

I feel that I know the life of these cities. I know the workingman, his habits, the problems he contends with, the way he feels and thinks. This matter of the saloon is one of his problems.

My touch with it has been close; I have been close to the men who drink, the men who sell, even those who make. These things have led me to an honest and profound conviction that we need in this State a new method [illegible] lion regulation. In another article I shall outline the plan that appears to me wise.

"Misfortune comes in pairs," quoted the Wise Guy.

"Yes, especially when the other fellow has three of a kind," added the Simple Mug.

Inklings and Thinklings

By WEX JONES

READING a play with the directions for the players carefully noted is enough to give one a healthy regard for the actor who can live up to them. Especially is this true of the gestures. A play may read like this:

De Brisse—Wandering around the room in a way to indicate that he is the best swordsman in France)—What, ho, within!

Innkeeper (rushing hurriedly in a manner denoting that he has been disturbed while cooking a feast)—Aye. Yes, m' lord.

De Brisse (with a gesture indicating that he is hungry and would like a roast chicken)—Hurry!

Innkeeper (with a gesture indicating that his mother-in-law is staying at the inn and that she has eaten the last chicken in the place)—I am sorry——

De Brisse (with a gesture indicating that he has a hasty temper and that he has killed many a varlet for smaller offences than this delay)—Make haste, dog. Dost not perceive that I would fain eat?

Innkeeper (with a gesture detailing that he has nothing in the larder but two eggs and a can of tomatoes)—Yes, m' lord, but——

De Brisse (with a gesture indicating that he comes from Missouri)—Haste. But me no buts, as Master Shakespeare saith.

Innkeeper (with a gesture indicating that he will visit the village and return with pepper, salt, bread and potatoes)—Right-o, kiddo. (Goes out with gesture showing that he will stay out an hour in a neighboring taproom.)

De Brisse (with a gesture showing that at 3 o'clock that afternoon he must have $2 to pay a tailor he made with a one-eyed knight)—A pest upon such scurvy knaves. But what have we here—eggs, tomatoes? Lucky I have my sword, which will serve woundily well for a can opener. And, ods bodkins, can I not boil yonder hen fruit upon the gas? By my baldoon, I have fared worse in the wars. I mind well that day at Grasse (with a gesture indicating that at Grasse one day some five years before he had breakfasted with his old brother-at-arms, de Rougemont, upon the rind of a cheese which he had found in a rat trap.)

Innkeeper (returning with an air of excitement and the potatoes)—Hello, Bill!

De Brisse (with a gesture indicating that he once had lots of money, but of late years has a great constriction of the purse)—Hast two beans, varlet, until the morrow?

Innkeeper (with a gesture indicating that he has heard the same request full many a time)—Out upon thee! Wouldst eat my eggs and my preserved tomatoes and then prate of two beans until the morrow? What do the watch for, if not for such fellows? I will summon them even now.

De Brisse (with a gesture indicating that such a reply makes him a weary)—Zounds, sirrah, is this treatment for a nobleman?

Innkeeper (with a gesture indicating that he hears his bloodhound approaching five miles away)—Aw, please yerself. Beat it here, while your armor's bright.

De Brisse (with a gesture which tells the whole story of his life from the time he was left as an orphan with a crusty old uncle who opposed the woman's suffrage movement on the ground that it made women unfitted for the duties of the castle)—Well, well, an I must, I must. (Goes out with gesture indicating that he will tell the one-eyed knight that he was held up and robbed of the $2 he had for him, but that he has strong doubts of the one-eyed knight's entire belief in his explanation.)
